COLD WAR CHILLS

Soviet Chief Blames War In Viet Nam

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW — The war in Viet Nam is freezing Soviet-American relations and the Soviet Union will continue to supply military aid to North Viet Nam, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev says.

On the domestic front, he told the Russians that because of poor harvests the Soviet Union may have to buy more wheat from the West.

Reviewing Soviet foreign policy before the party central committee Wednesday, the first secretary also held out an olive branch to China.

Brezhnev said the war in Viet Nam "greatly complicated" Soviet relations with the United States and those relations "show a clearly evident tendency toward freezing."

"Normalization of our relations is incompatible with the armed aggression of American imperialism against a fraternal socialist country—Viet Nam. 'MUST ABANDON POLICY'

"The nature of the further development of our relations with the United States will depend on whether or not the leaders of this country will show enough common sense to abandon the policy of aggressive attacks."

Brezhnev again attacked West German "militarism" and warned that the Warsaw pact nations of Communist Eastern Europe would take steps to strengthen their defenses. He said there are "no possibilities for fruitful development of relations with West Germany," even though trade continues.

Russia's relations with Britain, he said, were "substantially hampered" by the Labor government's support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam and for nuclear weapons for West Germany.

"At the present time the prospects of our relations with France are not bad," he said, due to "the realistic position of the French government" in attempting to improve relations with the Communist camp.

"We must consistently continue to search for the ways of consolidating friendship and co-operation between the Soviet and Chinese peoples, between our parties and countries."

'WILL CONTINUE AID'

Brezhnev said Russia had supplied North Viet Nam with "a considerable amount of weapons and military equipment," and declared that military aid would be continued. And he disclosed that Russia already has bought more than 9,000,000 tons of wheat and flour in the West, much of it from Canada, at an estimated cost of more than $700,000,000.

He indicated that Russia might be dipping into its gold reserves to finance the purchase of more Western wheat.

This year's harvest is expected to be better than 1963's—the worst on record. But experts said it was unlikely to exceed 60,000,000 tons, which would be 14,000,000 tons less than last year's.

DINNER MEETING was held in New York Wednesday night by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, left, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. They met in Rusk's hotel suite to discuss disarmament, the India-Pakistan conflict and U.S.-Russian relations. The meeting was described as friendly and another will be held Friday night. 'Friends, Neighbors' Acquit White Deputy

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—An all-white Lowndes County jury today acquitted special deputy Thomas Coleman of the shotgun slaying of a white civil rights worker from New Hampshire.

The jurors, friends and neighbors of Coleman, deliberated a total of 1 hour and 43 minutes before returning the verdict, another in a long series of failures by prosecutors to gain convictions in deep south civil rights slaying cases.

Coleman, member of a prominent Lowndes County family, was charged with first degree manslaughter in the Aug. 20 death of Jonathan Daniels, 26, an Episcopal seminarian from Keene, N.H., and assault in the wounding of the Rev. Richard Morrisroe, 26, a Roman Catholic priest from Chicago.

"I'm happy," was Coleman's only comment after the verdict was announced. The executive director of an Episcopal society which sent Daniels into Alabama to do civil rights work called the acquittal a "miscarriage of justice."

'DID WHAT HE HAD TO'

Coleman's defense broke down on the contention that "he did what he had to do" when he shot the two white men in front of a Hayneville store when they came there shortly after being released from a civil rights demonstration pickup in the county jail one block away.

The verdict was read by court clerk Mrs. Kelly Coleman, a cousin by marriage of the defendant, a district engineer for the state highway department and a "citizen" deputy sheriff.

Coleman's wife and numerous other relatives and close friends were in the courtroom when the verdict was handed down. Coleman's wife grabbed her husband in an embrace. Tears running down her cheeks, she said: "I knew it all the time."

NOT SURPRISED

"I wasn't surprised at all," said Carlton Perdue, who was serving on the prosecution staff as the solicitor of Lowndes County.

"What could you expect in this country?" he added.

The case took an unusual twist when Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers criticized the grand jury for returning the lesser charge, and stepped in to take over the case.

But on the first day of the trial, Circuit Court Judge T. Werth Thagard bluntly ordered the attorney general out of the trial and almost cited Flowers' assistant for contempt. Flowers had maintained he was not prepared to start the trial and that the atmosphere in the county was not conducive to a fair trial for the prosecution.

Flowers took away the prosecution from local authorities on grounds they were party to a "grave of justice" in trying Coleman only for manslaughter.

Throughout the brief trial the defense contended that Coleman acted in self defense. Three defense witnesses testified Daniels was armed with a knife and Morrisroe with a gun when they approached the small country store. Prosecution witnesses said, however, that both men were unarmed.

Standing in a steady rain, a highway patrol captain backed by a line of troopers confronted the Negro children and, turned them back peacefully. "You're not going to ride the buses and that's it," warned Capt. Theron Aldridge.

Aldridge also warned about 100 whites present: "Let's get this straight. We're not going to have any trouble. We (the troopers) can handle this and we will and that's it."

It was the third consecutive day of racial tension in this rural northwest Georgia area where a Negro civil rights worker was roughed up Wednesday by angry whites and a Negro teen-ager dragged from his car and assaulted until troopers rescued him.

Hydro to Check Spiralling Costs

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority today put the onus on contractors to check spiralling construction costs in the province.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman, said the crown agency will refuse to guarantee payment of extra fringe benefits negotiated after new contracts are awarded.

He also said Hydro will meet only 90 per cent of wage increases negotiated during the life of any new contract.

A clause to this effect will be placed in the specifications for each new contract, Dr. Shrum said. The clause will replace one in existing contracts guaranteeing Hydro will meet 100 per cent of escalation of labor costs.

MASTER PACTS DELETED

He said the new policy will not affect master agreements between Hydro and unions involved in projects on the Peace and Columbia rivers.

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—State troopers today turned away a group of Negro children, some of them first and second graders, who failed for the third consecutive day to board buses bound for all-white schools in neighboring counties.

UN Ceasefire Crumbling In Kashmir

UNITED NATIONS

(UPI)—India and Pakistan today confronted the United Nations with their avowed unwillingness to withdraw their armed forces from the disputed areas of Kashmir.

Blaming each other for violations of the security council-ordered cease-fire, India and Pakistan gave no indication of abiding by the council's demand to withdraw all armed personnel from the battle-torn territory.

Before leaving for Pakistan Wednesday night, Pakistani Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto said his country would not withdraw its armed forces from Kashmir unless the United Nations sent in a peace force to prevent India from moving in.

'PREPOSTEROUS'

India, claiming the disputed area of Kashmir as an "integral part" of India, told the 117-member general assembly Wednesday that the idea of withdrawing troops "is preposterous."

At the same time, Indian delegate Syed Mir Qasim, minister without portfolio of the government of Kashmir, rejected two other proposals presented to the assembly Tuesday by Bhutto—a UN-supervised plebiscite to determine the political future of Kashmir and the question of a peace force for the area.

Qasim said India "will never agree to any foreign troops being inducted into our country—we are entirely opposed to this proposal."

'DISASTROUS'

Dealing with Pakistan's repeated calls for a plebiscite to "let the people decide their own future," Qasim said the application of a plebiscite "to parts of sovereign independent states would be disastrous."

Despite the hostile statements voiced by both sides, Secretary-General Thant was working quietly to build up a UN military observer force for Kashmir.

A spokesman yesterday said Thant had contacted several countries, including East European, to determine whether they would send observers.

N.Y. Strike Costly to Que.

QUEBEC (CP)—Paul Emile Lachance, president of the Council of Quebec Pulp and Paper Producers, says a 12-day strike which has halted publication of six New York daily papers is costing Quebec newsprint producers $1,620,000 a week in sales.

Nearly all Quebec newsprint manufacturers are affected and weekly deliveries have been reduced by about 12,000 tons, he said today.

They said Peter William Harrison, 26, of Vancouver, was transferred to the hospital from B.C. penitentiary Aug. 4 after being declared mentally disturbed by a medical and psychiatric team.

He escaped from the hospital Wednesday with a 16-year-old Prince George juvenile.

The pair used an electrical cord to slide down from a third-floor window then stole a sports car.

GRIM BATTLE UNDER WAY NEAR BORDER

KARACHI (Reuters)—Pakistani forces were locked in a grim battle with two battalions of Indian troops in the Rajasthan area near the Sind border, about 120 miles east of Hyderabad city, it was officially announced today.

An official communique broadcast by Radio Pakistan said the Indians launched an attack at 2:30 a.m. today on Sacha, a post Pakistan claimed to have occupied before the ceasefire order Sept. 23.

Reports at 1 p.m. today said the battle still was continuing with the Indians suffering heavy losses.

United Nations observers have been informed, the communique said.

Famine Faces Isolated Valley

MUZAFFARABAD, Azad Kashmir (Reuters)—Officials here said Wednesday 50,000 people are facing starvation in an isolated valley because food cannot be taken to them along a narrow mountain road shelled by the Indians.

They said the road to the Meelan (Blue Sapphire) Valley, north of Muzaffarabad, capital of Azad (Pakistan) Kashmir—was heavily damaged by shelling in the last year.

Food carriers with 80-pound bundles on their heads have been sent to the valley, where food is needed to supplement a thin harvest. They have to cross 8,000-foot passes on which the first snows will soon fall.

International Red Cross and United Nations Children's Fund officials are helping to alleviate the plight of 1,000 refugees from Indian Kashmir who have streamed into a camp of stone huts 18 miles from Muzaffarabad.

ESSONDALE ESCAPEE 'DANGEROUS'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police describe one of two persons who escaped from the provincial mental hospital at Essondale Wednesday as extremely dangerous and perhaps armed.

They said Peter William Harrison, 26, of Vancouver, was transferred to the hospital from B.C. penitentiary Aug. 4 after being declared mentally disturbed by a medical and psychiatric team.

He escaped from the hospital Wednesday with a 16-year-old Prince George juvenile.

The pair used an electrical cord to slide down from a third-floor window then stole a sports car.

India, however, said its forces had got the upper hand and were winning in a fight that involved desert rangers and camel units. A defence ministry spokesman said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured.

India says that when full-scale fighting stopped last week, it held 690 square miles of Pakistani territory, and had relinquished 250 square miles of its soil to Pakistan.

Both Sides Dig In

NEW DELHI (AP)—India and Pakistan were digging in today for what promised to be more bloody skirmishes along the ineffective UN ceasefire line separating their armies.

Diplomats of both nations were publicly adopting uncompromising stands that appeared to leave no prospect of a significant troop withdrawal or long range peace settlement.

The Indian flag was flying on the eastern bank of the Ichhogil Canal and in the Pakistani town of Burki which was captured before the ceasefire.

The Indians also were extending the civil administration to areas they had captured in Pakistani Kashmir. There was no indication whether New Delhi also planned such a move in occupied sections of West Pakistan.

The United Nations, which arranged the ceasefire Sept. 28, still did not have enough observers on the front to do much good and the chief UN officer, Maj.-Gen. Bruce MacDonald of Edmonton, was reported to have left for the Pakistani city of Lahore in an effort to quiet down the skirmishing.

SEEKS WITHDRAWAL

Gen. MacDonald was said to be proposing that both armies initially withdraw 500 yards from the tense Lahore front, where their forward units now face each other across the 100-foot wide Ichhogil Canal. He is commander of the newly-created United Nations India-Pakistan Observer Mission (UNIPOM).

The newspaper Indian Express said Gen. MacDonald was asking both armies to disengage physically because their nearness to each other was considered a major reason for frequent ceasefire violations.

Both sides were charging violations along almost the entire length of the long, tense front that stretches from northernmost Kashmir state southwest until it almost reaches the Arabian Sea.

Some of the heaviest fighting was reported in the desert that covers much of India's Rajasthan state and the adjoining Hyderabad area of Southern West Pakistan.

Pakistan claimed it had captured five Indian officers, including a lieutenant—colonel commanding a battalion, in one desert clash.

India, however, said its forces had got the upper hand and were winning in a fight that involved desert rangers and camel units. A defence ministry spokesman said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured.

India says that when full-scale fighting stopped last week, it held 690 square miles of Pakistani territory, and had relinquished 250 square miles of its soil to Pakistan.

VANCOUVER TO BUILD $6 MILLION ARENA

VANCOUVER (UPI)—A new $6 million arena will be constructed on the Pacific National Exhibition grounds here for opening in May, 1967, PNE president Harry Terry said today.

The federal and provincial governments have each agreed to grant $2 million to the project, and the city of Vancouver $1 million. The other million dollars will be raised by the PNE and city at a later date, Terry added.

The building will seat 16,000 and pave the way for a National Hockey League team. Vancouver is one of six cities which applied for an NHL franchise under current major league expansion plans.

FOR MORAL SUPPORT

Call Maidens Anonymous

SHEFFIELD, England (Reuters)—June Heaton, 20, a Sheffield University student, has started a society called Maidens Anonymous for girls who are against pre-marital sex.

The society, which so far has 20 members, in an article in a student newspaper, says: "All men are lecherous, egotistical swine and the blond-haired, blue-eyed Adonis who gazes into your eyes is not drinking in your beauty... or not in the way you think he is."

The society invites members who find themselves in danger of being seduced to telephone one of several numbers, secret except to members—to contact a fellow member "who will attempt to give moral support."

Analyst's Comments

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: You can expect a fair speed duel here between Actella, Mr. Spree and Pidge's Pride. Weight and all Mr. Spree would be our choice except for the post. He's run well lately but not too many score from out here. Pidge's Pride won at first asking and there's no real telling how good he is. His sire Flag Bonnet was a superior muddier and Pidge's Pride caught a sloppy trip. Besides he may miss Cormack. Actella looks better every time out and obviously likes the track.

ACTELLA (Mr. Spree).

SECOND RACE: Any maiden race can be a handicapper's nightmare and this one is no exception. If speed is your dish Solid Best and Mr. Wasp must be considered. The filly hung on better than usual in her last try but the deep track takes something out of the filers. Mr. Wasp's only route try was disappointing but if repeats his last he could get on the board. My imagination will appreciate the distance but his rally isn't exactly overwhelming. Miss Simon is another late runner but her fancy Sans Brazil. She's been lightly campaigned and tends to drift on the turns but the McDougall-Cormack duo knows its business. SANS BRAZIL (Solid Best).

THIRD RACE: Except for the tonnage factor, Donmaid would appear to have a fairly comfortable margin over these. She's had a race over the track and if Cormack can find the openings she could be running fastest of all in the stretch. Turk's Girl drew the post to suit her speed. Kelly Joy will carry them a ways but she seems destined to be a bridesmaid. Forall Speed has practically run out of excuses but you never can tell. If all the leaders die the plodding Loodan might make his annual appearance in the winner's circle. DONMAID (Turk's Girl).

FOURTH RACE: She hasn't lost in her last five starts at Sandown and if you believe in horses for courses you have to like In Advance. She drops five pounds here, too, but she'll have to be flat out with these. Dark Bug drops down sharply today and if it comes up wet they may not see which way she went. G. Day is very close to her peak. Lovely Story and Orista have a shot with this company but we'll stay with Irish Jubilee. None are more consistent, fast or moist. The fast fractions, particularly if Power Tip draws in to gambol with In Advance, should set it up for the Irishman. IRISH JUBILEE (In Advance).

FIFTH RACE: When you get a race with horses stepping up and horses dropping in class, you often end up with a large head a c h e. Fraser Canyon, Tommy Can and Highdora are the ambitious ones and it's amazing how often a horse will step up and mow them down. Jeaneelz, Steve's Trust and Pascanna all take a dip today and off their last race none appears to be a 3-5 good thing. Jeaneelz will likely lead them out of the gate but she stops like she was tied to a tree. Quick Return, who has not lived up to her breeding promise, Highdora and Pascanna will likely be close up, along with Tommy Can. Fraser Canyon needed a sterling ride from Salas to beat an easier field but he rarely throws a bad one. In a grab-bag. TOMMY CAN (Quick Return).

SIXTH RACE: We've never been a member of the Some Standard fan club but unless something pops up early, she should lead them away from the barrier. Read It is never far away and may exert enough pressure to do the job. Aside from Skerry Blue whose mind wasn't on her work in her last out, there should be a great cavalry charge from the three-eighths pole. Copper Prince is never far away; Hariton, if he's in the mood can be rough and Fighting Hawk, though he had

A. Bhutto said in New York Wednesday there could be no withdrawal of Pakistani troops unless there was "an impartial authority" to replace them. Pakistan also has denied any connection with guerrillas operating in Kashmir.

India, on the other hand, has said no United Nations peace-keeping force will be permitted on Indian soil and declared Pakistan must admit responsibility for the guerrillas and withdraw them.

Notaries Public Conventioneing Here Next Week

The occasions will also mark the 40th birthday of the society. Chief speakers will be L. St. Moulin, Q.C., who is chairman of the notaries committee of the Benchers of the Law Society, and attorney-general Robert Bennett.

Victoria members of the convention committee include Harry C. Foster, Charles Elington, J. Gordon Greenwood and Frank L. Kitto, with Frank J. Ney representing Nanaimo. Delegates and wives will be received by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes at Government House at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Frostbiters Open Season Fun Program

More than 70 hardy sailors—many of them women—are expected to don winter woollies and wet-weather gear Saturday when the Royal Victoria Yacht Club opens the new frostbite season.

The fleets of El Toros and Davidson dinghies are expected to be larger than ever with more than 70 already registered.

The official opening will take place at 1:30 p.m. In charge of this year's program are chairman D.O.T. Rochford and vice-chairman Lyle Russell. They describe the Saturday's races as "a fun program," with emphasis on welcoming newcomers to the fleets. Weather permitting, five races will be run on courses in Cadboro Bay.

'Class Struggle' Continues in China

TOKYO (AP)—Peking admits the class struggle still exists in China and "at times is very acute." The statement on the eve of the 16th anniversary of Communist rule comes from the central committee of the Chinese Communist party in its newspaper Red Flag. Observers saw the statement as an admission that Peking's drive to regiment its masses in communes and state-run industry had not been as successful as claimed.

City Doctors Back Hospital Criticism

A spokesman for the Victoria medical profession today agreed with sweeping criticism of both local general hospitals as presented Wednesday to B.C. Hospitals' Association.

Although Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals were not mentioned by name, a report delivered to the association's annual conference in Vancouver singled out the five major hospitals of Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster.

They are obsolete and inadequate in many respects, for which the government and communities must be blamed, the report said.

Both lack of finances for capital construction and equipment, and procrastination by all levels of government are responsible for inadequacies, the association was told.

Blame must also be shared by the community, hospital and professional groups and government agencies which have failed to assume responsibility and direction, said the report.

"We all know and have stated that certain portions of our hospitals here are outdated and obsolete," said the Victoria Medical Society director.

"There are plans for updating these, many of them approved by the government and under way."

"We are doing our best to keep up with the times, but it is true that there is a shortage of funds."

The spokesman referred to a recent report of the Victoria and District Hospital Planning Council, which outlined areas of hospital service needing improvement.

It is "an active plan for a five-year improvement scheme, with something to be done each year," the medical man said.

"If this plan is allowed to go through, we should be reasonably up to date."

FAILED TO KEEP PACE

The report made in Vancouver said the hospitals have failed to keep pace with the advances in medicine that enable improved care to be given.

Hospitals lack modern equipment that would help implement better patient care as well as better services, and there is a shortage of some types of highly-trained personnel.

All five hospitals operate near capacity, and one has an occupancy rate considered too high to give satisfactory care, delegates were told.

Quebec Press Ignoring West

REGINA (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage today said newspapers in Quebec should maintain correspondents in major western cities to give the people of Quebec a better idea of the important issues in western Canada.

Mr. Lesage, at a press conference, said he agreed that the English-speaking press of Canada has done more to cover events in Quebec than the French press has done to cover the rest of Canada.

TIDES AT FILLFORD HARBOR (Pacific Standard Time)

Some of the specified shortcomings include inadequate emergency wards, at all five hospitals; laboratories far too small to do proper work at three hospitals; X-ray departments that are too small or ill-equipped at three hospitals; physiotherapy departments at two hospitals with inadequate facilities and equipment.

All five are operating with plants designed a generation ago, with 60-bed wards, operating suites too small for modern surgery and obsolete dietary services.

Outmoded design and acute space limits make development of new services impossible, the report said.

Health Minister Eric Martin, who opened the conference, said it would be hard to assess the facts of the report because no hospitals were named. But if the hospital boards accepted the criticisms and responsibility for remedies, he promised "full government support."

The Victoria medical spokesman said the X-ray department in St. Joseph's is "certainly in obsolete quarters," although some new equipment had been placed.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE IN NOV. 8 VOTE

Hunter Takes Secreds by Surprise

By AB KENT
Victoria Social Crediters Wednesday named retired city clerk Frank Hunter to carry their federal election banner in the November campaign.

The nomination took most of the 100-plus Secred delegates by surprise as they met at Club Sirocco to name their Victoria constituency candidate.

But they elected him against first nominee Geoff Ellis even though Mr. Hunter was absent from the meeting.

When he arrived amid an enthusiastic ovation 45 minutes later, delegates made the nomination unanimous.

"This is a situation that has been so far from my mind that I wouldn't have thought it would come up," Mr. Hunter told the convention and its 110 voting delegates.

NOT 'CARPETBAGGER'

But he made it clear he came in "on the understanding that the party wanted me to be its candidate . . . not like a carpet-bagger."

Nominating committee chairman Dr. Charles Ennals earlier told the meeting Mr. Hunter was a "man of high principles. He wouldn't join just to become a candidate and he was not seeking the nomination."

"I'll tell you one thing," said Mr. Ellis, "you couldn't have picked a finer man."

There was applause and a few subdued whoops from the floor. Most delegates were older people, with small representation by Young Secreds.

MANY FRIENDS

Mr. Hunter said in his experience in municipal affairs—never in a partisan way—he made many friends.

"My friendships transcend all connections I may have . . . I want it clearly understood."

But having had no political experience, he referred to himself as "green" and a "helpless one venturing out on the ocean of dominion politics," for which he will rely on all the help he can get.

"I will do the best I can before God to serve everyone faithfully and well. That's the only promise I give," the candidate said.

UNDECIDED VOTE

MLA J. Donald Smith, who made the nomination, said Mr. Hunter "is the answer to the neutral and undecided vote existing in our federal riding today."

than an impartial monarchy." Mr. Green also stressed morality in government, saying organized crime had reached into the offices of assistants to ministers.

"It is unbelievable to me that this could have happened in Canada and yet the prime minister is so weak it was just swept under the rug."

He accused Mr. Pearson of "hiding under a bed" in Ottawa rather than hitting the hustings trying to justify what has gone on.

Mr. Green also drew applause when he said Conservatives believe "in Canada the nation, Canada as one country."

BONUS FOR FRANK as Young Secreds group around to congratulate retired city clerk Frank Hunter upon winning the Victoria Social Credit nomination for the coming

"He is a man who will go to Ottawa and raise standards higher than ever by anyone from this province."

"He will bring out a largest number of supporters than anyone we could nominate at this time," Mr. Smith said.

Meeting chairman Archie Brown said there was a precedent in nominating a candidate in abstentia, citing the case of Einar Gunderson in an old provincial election, even though he was in Peru at the time.

He put the matter to the meeting, but no one objected and the Hunter nomination was allowed to stand.

Mr. Ellis, who joined Social Credit in 1962 after a squabble within Liberal ranks here, said the Social Credit movement is "the only honest one in Canada."

I was a Liberal for 25 years and I know whereof I speak.

"Liberals in B.C. never speak for B.C., they speak for their party . . . We need a member in Ottawa that will speak for B.C. . . . get down there and make a noise"

Interlarded by the Esquimalt-Saanich Progressive Conservative Campaign Assoc.

The Watershed

A WATERSHED OF VAST SIGNIFICANCE was crossed by the Roman Catholic Church with the recent vote of the Vatican Council endorsing the principle of man's right to exercise freedom of religion and to follow the dictates of his conscience.

There may be alterations in the final form of the declaration, but its acceptance by an overwhelming majority of the delegates to the ecumenical session in Rome ensures that the principle will now be a tenet of the Church. There was strong opposition from the conservative elements in Vatican circles and even a sustained effort to have the whole declaration brusquely shelved. But the liberal forces prevailed, and it is understood that Pope Paul himself was instrumental in permitting them to bring the issue to a vote at the present session.

Recognition of the principle of freedom will be of great importance in those countries, such as Spain or some of the Latin American lands, in which Roman Catholic doctrine has been imposed by government to the detriment of other beliefs or non-believers. It will be noted that in recognizing the right of the individual to worship in his own way, the Church has not only removed an obvious infringement of civil liberty which had existed in varying degrees, but has also accepted a much wider view of the validity of other beliefs. While not admitting the truth of the dogmas of other denominations it does, in recognizing man's right to support them, significantly broaden the moral basis for belief.

This, then, gives the whole ecumenical movement great encouragement. The area in which a meeting of churches can take place has been greatly enlarged by this essential prerequisite, a vital human right has been officially endorsed, and through the triumph of progressive forces within the Roman Catholic Church—a new basis of freedom has been laid.

The latter consideration opens up a wholly new prospect, for the problems of the modern world which are now surging against the walls of the traditional Church will require more than the traditional approach for their solution.

The population explosion, the age of leisure through automation, man's reaching out beyond his planet and his planetary system—these raise questions which must be met with more than medieval concepts. They need not shatter religious fundamentals, but they will demand twentieth-century answers which call for a re-interpretation of many solidly entrenched doctrines. The Council's vote gives indication that the Church will respond to this challenge—as it must, for the history-making vote cannot be allowed to stand in isolation.

Too Little Too Slowly

THE UNCOMMONLY HARD-hitting speech delivered by George D. Woods, president of the World Bank, at the opening of the five-day annual meeting in Washington this week, was a searing indictment of the failure of prosperous nations to help those less fortunate than themselves.

Mr. Woods strongly criticized under-developed countries as well, charging that many of them had frittered away assistance made available to them while failing to take effective action to curb their explosive population growths.

In a sense, the World Bank president's address reflected the vicious circle in which the whole problem of aid to under-developed countries is running. The rich nations provide aid but the poor nations are not capable of utilizing it properly through lack of expertise. The poor countries request more aid to compensate for their inefficiency in utilizing what they have received but the rich countries balk at what seems like an investment with little return.

Nevertheless, Mr. Woods emphasized, unless faster progress is made in breaking the circle, "the prospect is for discontent, unrest and tensions that in the end must spill over national boundaries and ultimately affect the rich nations as well as the poor." If the urgency of the situation is not soon perceived, "such actions as we may take a few years from now may be too little, too late."

'Best Generation Ever'

ONE OF THE DISTORTING influences in current assessments of young people is the inclination of adults to agree that the majority of juveniles are good children and then to devote the preponderance of discussion to the activities of the minority which misbehaves.

This is a normal reaction. The teenager who attends to his own business, causes little trouble and behaves decently seldom creates newspaper headlines. Nor does he often stimulate the volume of comment invited by the opposite type of youngster.

Dr. L. Jolyon West, head of the psychiatric department of the University of Oklahoma, in a recent statement put the whole generation on a new plane.

He says that the young people of today, widely criticized as they are by their elders, may turn out to be the finest generation ever.

"This generation is giving a new quality to mankind," he says. "They have basic beliefs of what is right and wrong and they have the courage to support these beliefs. They are operating from basic principles rather than the emotionalism that has produced much of the young pranksterism in the past."

The adult critic of that point of view can immediately cite innumerable instances in which individuals in the current generation of youngsters have conducted themselves in a way that disqualifies them entirely from membership in "the best generation ever."

It is convenient in such arguments to forget the majority and to single out the more objectionable members of the minority. Dr. West makes no such distinction as he talks of youth as an age group. His comment is something to keep in mind the next time adult conversation turns to the reprehensible activities of people under 20.

New Strong Man for Moscow?

WE hear from Moscow of great and sweeping changes as the Supreme Soviet prepares to meet tomorrow.

The long-delayed plenum of the Central Committee has already discussed industrial reforms and made public the new policies to be followed.

Complex processes of reorganization and reform, quietly set in motion long ago and recently stepped up month by month, are being formalized and codified. When this is done the Soviet economy will have a very different look.

This could also be the moment to put an end to all the rumors concerning the leadership and to reshape a government machine which, since the deposition of Khrushchev almost tentatively, on agriculture, it will be able to announce that it has got industry on the right lines and is at least thinking about a similar revolution for agriculture.

In the sphere of foreign policy, Moscow has indeed marked time until lately, but it has abandoned none of Khrushchev's gains. In recent weeks, it has been seen to be moving purposefully.

There has been a dramatic, perhaps decisive, reassertion of Russia as an Asian power in her showy and significant initiative in Delhi and Rawalpindi and, a week ago, in her outright condemnation of China (after months of restraint) for exacerbating the Indian-Pakistan quarrel and, by implication, for her Viet Nam policy.

Opportune Development

It could not have come at a better time for the rather grey "collective" which has lately been having some trouble in controlling the party bureaucracy on which it must so heavily lean.

This bureaucracy, the entrenched officialdom of the governing apparatus, needs a strong hand to keep it in order at the best of times. If the leadership is to push through far-reaching changes which will threaten the jobs and vested interests of tens of thousands of "apparatchiks"—the tough, narrow, doctrinaire and not very intelligent party managers—a very authoritative figure in supreme command seems to be called for.

It is this need which has led to the speculation, some of it maliciously inspired, about the impending decline of Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin. Certainly the government now needs more color and personalized authority. But it is unlikely in the extreme that one man will assume all the offices that Khrushchev held, or that Kosygin will be dropped from the premiership.

Brezhnev is another matter. He is said to be tired. He may move back to the presidency—which he held for a time before Khrushchev's downfall—if Anastas Mikoyan retires, as seems likely. He may content himself with the first secretaryship of the Russian Federal Republic, which unannounced, he has apparently held for some time.

One of the younger men may take over: Brezhnev's job as first secretary of the All Union Central Committee and build himself up as a dynamic leader. Obviously there is sharp competition for such eminence, but there is no real reason to suppose that the future of the world hangs on the outcome of this struggle.

The most favored contender is Aleksandr Shelepin. He was leader of the Komsomol (and as such master of the party machine), later the chief of security police (and as such a man of power), and was promoted on Khrushchev's fall to both the party presidium and the party secretariat. He is very much a key man of "Young Turk" inclinations at the tender age of 47.

His age is the only tender thing about him. It has sometimes been said that a man with Shelepin's past must stand for tough and reactionary policies. This is not necessarily so. There is nothing much to choose between the past—or the presents either—or any of the Soviet leaders. They were either formed, like Brezhnev, Kosygin, Suslov and Nikolai Podgorniy, all in their late fifties or early sixties, by Stalin himself; or, like Shelepin and Dmitri S. Polyansky, the 49-year-old premier of the Russian Federal Republic, by Stalin's proteges.

Foggy Days at Scarborough

HELL hath no fury like a political party scorned, judging by the temper of last week's Liberal conference at Scarborough. The Liberals have been sorely vexed for some time because the Labor government has refused to entertain the idea of a Lib-Lab pact or even to acknowledge openly that the Liberals have been seeking one.

But when the party was constrained to troop to the seaside for its annual three and a half days of soul-searching without having received so much as a knowing wink from Prime Minister Wilson, indignation knew no bounds.

The jilted suitor himself, party leader Jo Grimond, set the tone in an unusually vehement speech on opening day Wednesday in which he rebuked the government for ignoring his overtures of last July. But Mr. Wilson would be sorry, he seemed to say, for the Liberals were no longer in any mood to be fooled with.

Critical Vote

It might have been possible for the two parties to work out a joint approach to the next parliamentary session, he said. But as things stand, there is every likelihood that "We shall be bound on some occasions, when we believe that they are in the national interest wrong, to vote against the government. If the government then have no over-all majority, an election will follow."

Speaker after speaker echoed Mr. Grimond's mood, as if anxious to make the point that Liberals had been guilty of a mild flirtation but now they had come to their senses and realized it would have been a bad match.

Basil Wigoder, chairman of the party executive, went so far as to tell the assembly he wasn't sure whether a Conservative or Labor government was the greater catastrophe. Lord Byers professed amazement at all the talk of a pending political marriage and said, "we are not even just good friends." For his part, the party's chief whip had some scathing things to say about the party's failure to tame the unions and the party president followed along with a complaint that government had been prescribing Tory medicine for the country's ills. And so it went.

It went so far, indeed, that by closing day Mr. Grimond felt he had best try to inch open some of the doors that he and his followers had been so energetically slamming. After all, he said, he wanted a government of the left to succeed. And if there is another election before the next party conference, "we shall go into it not to return the Tories but to carry the light of progress a stage further." He didn't mention supporting the government but his choice of words was not lost on his listeners.

Unwanted Freedom

Obviously the chief reason for the Liberals' pique is that the government, by giving no hint of its own feelings, left them to deal all by themselves with the brittle question how to conduct themselves during the next session of Parliament. They were left with a freedom of action that they didn't want because they didn't have the foggiest notion what to do with it.

This much became clear when the conference failed to set out any guide lines for the parliamentary party and, with unaccustomed generosity, left Mr. Grimond and his colleagues to deal with forthcoming issues on their individual merits. It became even clearer when Mr. Grimond in his closing speech set out what he wanted recognized as the terms on which the Liberals would or would not sustain the government. While he was full of complaints about Labor's policies, not once did he dare draw a line beyond which Mr. Wilson might not pass.

The government could expect some "stringent criticisms" of certain measures during committee stage. The Liberals were at a loss to understand the government's foreign policy, especially with regard to the European Common Market. Britain's stance east of Suez was only a so-called peacekeeping role. It was all wonderfully vague and conveniently noncommittal.

Mute on Immigration

More significantly, he did not refer in his final speech to the one issue on which the Liberals will find it difficult to avoid voting against the government. The subject of immigration was entirely left out of his battle plan despite the fact that the party is angrier about the government's proposed restrictions than about any other single matter. Indeed, he said his most serious criticism was of the government's failure "to stamp a new character on British affairs."

It was certainly a handy criticism to put at the top of the list if only because it is the one least likely to embarrass anyone by the necessity of having to vote on it.

All of which leaves the Liberals precisely nowhere. For all the sound and fury, the assembly left the country with no clearer ideas about Liberalism than it had before. Mr. Grimond's promised "marching orders" said nothing about a destination.

To the Liberals, the only real importance of the present situation is that the spotlight has happened to fall on them at a crucial moment in British political history and that the party thus has a rarely offered chance to demonstrate whether it does, in fact, have intrinsic merit. Unfortunately, its performance at Scarborough does not speak well for its fond hopes of shattering the present political alignment and stepping forth as the country's major party of reform.

Letters

Mr. D. and British Tariff

With the election so near, maybe it would be in order to review past events, even as it is usual to judge the tree by the fruit it produces.

Using that as a basis I would earnestly suggest that we take our minds back to October of '59 when Claude Jodoin, the head of Canadian Labour Congress, buttonholed our then prime minister, John Diefenbaker, regarding that a higher tariff be imposed against the entry of the British-made Ford cars and without much or even any debate on the point this was granted, to become effective on the following November 1.

When I questioned a motor salesman later as to the extent of the increase, I was told, on the small models, it increased the price $65, and on the larger models $110. At that time Mr. Diefenbaker lost a wonderful opportunity to teach Claude Jodoin one of the basic lessons of governing this Canada of ours. —Harry Wyer, 1170 Chapman.

Living Too Long?

Perhaps the most callous headline to appear in the press was one which stated that "people living too long, were a problem in Canada."

Reading the article, one would get the impression that so many living to be a "ripe old age" were causing a grave financial situation in our wealthy country.

These so-called "experts" on social problems claimed that so many more "old-timers" around and drawing old age and welfare assistance, were a drain on our economical structure. In cold figures, they proved that unproductive oldsters, were becoming a great burden on the "producers" and workers of the land of the maple leaf.

Mr. Editor, what do these "experts" want us older citizens to do, just to stay away from ourselves? Or a gas chamber be used to "eliminate" old folks after reaching a certain age?

The truth is, Mr. Editor, many of these old people have worked hard all of their working lives to pay their taxes, to build a home, to raise and educate their families and have contributed in no small way to the prosperity of Canada which our politicians try so hard to claim every time an election rolls around!—Geo. W. Chinnery, Brantford, Ontario.

Funds for Scholarships

The sponsoring Robert Burns Mocking Chapter, IOOE, extends its thanks to Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Gibson and Miss Linda Gibson who devoted much time and effort in supervising all details of the eye-catching fashion show cinematic presented last week in the McPherson Playhouse.

With the $1507 proceeds realized from this affair the chapter plans to further its educational and service program. A $500 scholarship will be awarded to a University of Victoria student. Several $100 bursaries will be set up for local senior secondary school students and book prizes will be sent to the chapter's three adopted schools in the remote parts of British Columbia. Additional educational and teaching aids will be supplied to the chapter's other adopted girls' school at Antigua, British West Indies.

Assistance to the blind and other charitable causes will be maintained. —Valerie Collard, Public Relations Convener.

Medieval Autocracy

(Published by the Vancouver Bar Assn.)

THE defence of and search for freedom is restless and never ending. Surely the persistence of the provincial government in its refusal to forego the right of any citizen to pursue a claim against the administration in the courts without its consent is a denial of a fundamental right and freedom. No doubt the thinking public consider that the organized Bar should be the leader in the attack upon this festering injustice.

One by one the provinces of Canada have given way until now only three provinces, including British Columbia, maintain this barrier against the pursuit of justice. It is open to be thought that its stubborn and provoking attitude on this matter stems from the fear that some sort of error of some official shall be brought to light and the government be made to suffer in money or prestige.

Eradication Certain

The razing of this bastion is inevitable. It is a survival of medievalism and autocracy and must be attacked and fought mercilessly and relentlessly. Its eradication is certain to be won in the foreseeable future.

Another manifestation of autocracy, which affects the lawyers more than any others, is that of the appointment of Queen's Counsel. In 1950 the Act (King's Counsel Act now Queen's Counsel Act) by an amendment provided that appointments of Queen's Counsel are to be made upon the recommendation of the attorney-general who is not to make recommendations until after consultation with the Chief Justice of British Columbia, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and two members of the Law Society appointed by the Benchers for the purpose.

Without Consultation

Appointments since then are said to have been made without consultation as contemplated by the Act, or at all. Unless consultations are had the legislation is illusory, and the appointments still are reserved for "the King's favorites"—so much so, indeed, that a person not even in practice becomes eligible for that distinction. The entire Bar, restive on the subject, is certain to be vocal and insistent that appointments to Queen's Counsel be made to persons whose eminence at the Bar merits that distinction and after real and effective consultation.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"SHE ALWAYS WHISPERS, BUT DON'T HER FACE LOOK LIKE SHE'S YELLIN' AT YA?"

Looking Back

From The Times of Sept. 30, 1890:

A verdict of guilty was returned by the jury in the case of six Wellington miners charged with besetting and watching. The charges grew out of a parade by the miners, who have been locked out since May. But the jury said while the defendants are guilty of besetting, there was no serious intention of violence and a request for leniency was made. The defendants were bound in their own recognizances for $200 each to appear before the court when called upon.

Election Not Necessary; Except It Was Needed

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA—With this election I have covered nine of the 27 federal elections since Confederation, or exactly one third. And I've never known one so phoney.

It is an election without a popular issue. Three weeks after Prime Minister Pearson committed the country to the polls the people are largely unmoved. So Mr. Pearson wants a majority; so what else is new?

It's an election that by rights shouldn't have happened—unless, as I believe, Mr. Pearson needs a new and more solid mandate to strengthen his hand in further fiscal and constitutional negotiations with Quebec. But he can't dwell too precisely on this point without risk of antagonizing Quebec voters and jeopardizing the seat gains his party must make in Quebec to get a majority.

It's an election that dissolved the 26th Parliament just when the MPs elected only two and a half years ago had proven, by their hard and fruitful labors last spring, that they were mastering their jobs, and that minority government can be made to work.

It's an election that could have been postponed a year, with the likelihood that the postponement would make it possible to take the vote after an overdue redistribution of Commons seats and on an incomparably more democratic basis.

The element of phony is intensified by the spectacle of the Tory mavericks emerging from the bush to rejoin the herd, ostensibly submitting to the leadership of the old bull they tried to drive out, but in reality getting ready to destroy him should the expected opportunity arise after Nov. 8.

Waring

And by the graveyard whistling of Mr. Pearson: Liberal candidates should ignore the slander, innuendo and calumny of their opponents, he advised. In other words, ignore the Dorion Commission report and it'll go away.

And by the equal absurdities of Conservative leader Diefenbaker, who blames the Liberals for price inflation, and proposes to reduce taxes, increase old age pensions, and expand consumer credit by reducing interest rates and enacting a consumers' loans act—all inflationary measures.

The voters' choice isn't between two rival philosophies of government. The Conservatives provided good, imaginative government between 1957 and 1960, before strains and frustrations began to wrack—and wreck—their administration. The Liberals have provided good, imaginative government for the past two years, scandals and stumbles notwithstanding.

Only rarely, as over the flag, have Grits and Tories been unable to agree broadly since 1957 on policies and programs in the national interest. There has been much wrangling, of course, to avoid one-ism, but the pattern of government has not changed much. Where there has been difference is in approach, timing, priority, degree, and individual expertise in dealing with specifics.

The election rivalry, and the voters' choice, is thus much more between parties and leaders than between programs. Many voters seem to find the alternatives less than enthralling.

This actually favors the Liberals. It's axiomatic that the people don't elect opposition; they defeat governments. A quiet election, a disinterested electorate, a light vote—and the probability is that the vote may be down 10 per cent from 1963—increases Mr. Pearson's chances of getting his majority.

Latin America Hot Over U.S. Resolution Endorsing Intervention

There has been a "spate of violent reactions" in Latin American countries to the resolution passed by the U.S. House of Representatives supporting the principle of intervention in any Western Hemisphere country threatened by Communist subversion or domination.

The Latin American Times, a daily newspaper published in New York, reports that the resolution was formally condemned in two parliaments and roundly objected to by the press of the hemisphere. The newspaper describes the resolution as an attempt "to support President Johnson's Dominican policy" and reported:

"The resolution is being widely protested as an example of U.S. imperialism in hemisphere affairs. Resolutions in line with this condemnation were unanimously passed by the congresses of both Peru and Colombia.

Call for Unity

"The Colombian measure, more decisively worded than that of Peru, called for all legislators in Latin America to unite in opposing the statement.

"In other capitals, the diplomats were describing the measure as baffling, short-sighted, and stupid.

"It is certainly not going to improve the delicate support for the U.S. action in the Dominican Republic, one said.

"As would be expected, the most severe reaction came from Mexico where non-intervention has traditionally been an emotional and basic government policy.

"In this nation, some denounced the resolution as a violation of the Organization of American States charter while others expressed alarm that it might open the floodgates to further U.S. invasions.

"Similar views were expressed in editorials published by the newspapers in the various nations.

"In Brazil, almost all of the dailies condemned the House action. The Jornal do Brasil, an independent daily of Rio de Janeiro, asserted that 'at the least the text was insufficient and imprecise for such a delicate affair.'

No Legal Force

"In Caracas, the Democratic Action Party newspaper La Republica noted the resolution had no legal force, but said it is destined to cause 'bad feeling and discord in Latin American opinion.'

"The liberal morning newspaper El Tiempo in Colombia commented that 'all of (President) Roosevelt's Good Neighborliness and Kennedy's feeling towards alliance have vanished with this brutal slap in the face. . . . This is a new version of the 'big stick' policy.'

"This opinion coincided with the thoughts of Liberal Sen. Julio Cesar Turbay Ayala, who introduced the Colombian censorship motion.

"Turbay Ayala said let us hope that President Johnson shows himself to be superior to his Congress, and worthy of the historic destiny of America.

"In Mexico, the generally conservative newspapers Novedades and Excelsior also rejected the measure. Novedades called it risky while Excelsior said it violated the OAS charter.

"They were joined by almost all the political parties, both right and left.

"A spokesman for the conservative National Action Party called the measure a resurrection of the Monroe Doctrine.

"The leftist Popular Socialist Party (PPS) opined that it is a clear indication that the U.S. is not preoccupied with our opinions nor of the rights of the other countries in our hemisphere."

South Africa Economy Gets Brakes

JOHANNESBURG—South Africa's economic "great leap forward" of the last three to four years is being rapidly slowed with the government leading the campaign to put the brakes on hard.

From Premier Hendrik Verwoerd down, leading members of the government have warned South Africans that they should stop living it up and realize they are in for a period of earnest consolidation.

At the same time a number of new "put-the-brake-on" measures, chief of them tighter controls on consumer goods imports, have been put into effect. More are forecast.

None of this belt-tightening is likely to be popular with South Africa's white population of just over 3,000,000, the great majority of whom are accustomed to a free-spending good life.

Austerity Seen

"Tighter Money: Times Lie Ahead—It Will Be Austerity Christmas," ran a typical front-page headline in the Johannesburg Star.

Verwoerd said: "It is necessary for the government to slow down the present tremendous development to a somewhat slower rate so that we can progress to a development curve that will always rise."

Finance Minister Eben Dönges issued a similar warning that the country was living beyond its means. He appealed to civil engineers to help put the brake on by postponing or cancelling construction projects.

For the ordinary homeowner, whose cost of living has risen noticeably in the last two years, experts forecast higher prices for a wide range of consumer goods.

House loans are already difficult to obtain and time-payment plans are likely to be increasingly affected.

Realists See Little Future For New Greek Premier

By KARL E. MEYER
The Washington Post

George Papandreu, who owns to 78 years, an old-style radical democrat who in 1963 got a commanding 53 per cent of the votes.

At first, the young king and the old man got along well. On that there is agreement. But then the palace became disturbed by Papandreu's failure to deny unflattering and ungrounded rumors in his party press. Also, it is said, the king found out that his phone was being tapped and his fury was regal.

This spring, the king became concerned about what he regarded as possible Communist infiltration of the army. In Greece, the king has a special role as guardian of the army.

The two quarrelled violently over the question of appointing a new defence minister. Papandreu wanted to fill the job himself. This was unacceptable to the king and the prime minister was forced to resign.

Three Views

On the constitutional merits, a visitor hears three views: That the king was fully within his rights and was wise to force the issue; that the king had the right but was unwise to exercise it and that the king has no business telling a prime minister who is acceptable as defence minister.

Other points are in less dispute. Few deny that the king is surrounded by right-wing advisors hostile to Papandreu. By temperament, the king is clearly prone to displays of virility, whether as a sportsman or as a sovereign. So the two quarrelled and the prime minister resigned amid an angry exchange of letters. But, rather than dissolve Parliament and call a new election, Constantine named three successive premiers until Stephanopoulos finally managed to put together a majority in parliament.

Asmirers of Papandreu see the old man as waging a noble campaign against a palace that has meddled too much in internal politics.

Pointless Fight

There is another view that is responsibly argued—namely that Papandreu, an egomaniac, probably wanted a popular issue and is diverting his reform-minded Centre Party into a pointless fight that will benefit the extreme left and right.

Andreas Papandreu, the old man's son and chief political lieutenant, is almost as controversial as his father. Dark, intense and fluent, he talks like a combination of don and Greek politician. He was trained as an economist at Harvard and served as chairman of the department at the University of California at Berkeley.

When his father became prime minister, Andreas entered the Greek Parliament and served as cabinet minister. His critics see him as exerting a baleful influence swinging his father into tacit alliance with Communists.

Meanwhile, in the land of Oedipus and Electra, the question of family relations provides the liveliest source of gossip and argument.

Close Family

"Of course, the king is influenced by his mother, Queen Frederika," one is told. "They are a close family. They see each other every day. She's a great actress—she could charm anybody."

"Things have changed since Andreas came back from America," one is also told. "The old man used to live by himself in Castri (a suburb of Athens). He had divorced the mother of Andreas and neglected the boy. Now in his old age, he is suddenly a patriarch with a devoted son and several grandchildren. Andreas has exploited that."

What is the difference between Castri and the palace? runs a current joke. Answer: In Castri, the sins of the son are visited on the father. In the palace, the sins of the mother are visited on the son.

Soaring Turkey Vultures Provide Spectacular Show

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

A flurry of bird reports last week pointed up the fact that the fall migration was well under way. Making their annual appearance were a number of expected species and in addition there were a few unusual ones to whet the interest of bird-watchers.

Possibly most spectacular was a flight of large soaring birds spotted over various parts of Victoria on a few particular windless but sunny days. These were turkey vultures, broad-winged gliders that appear over south Vancouver Island almost every fall at this time. Thirty to 40 birds weaving circular patterns on almost motionless wings made up one flight and later several smaller groups were seen. In other years up to 70 have been seen in our area at one time, a truly outstanding sight.

Turkey vultures are relatively uncommon along our coast. The odd pair nest each season among the rocky bluffs bordering the shore-line of Vancouver Island and possibly on some of the Gulf Islands. Individuals are occasionally seen soaring over logged-off country some miles inland but you would scarcely call the species abundant in British Columbia.

The interesting question then arises: whence come all these birds? Obviously vultures are more abundant than we used to think and possibly they funnel in to lower Vancouver Island when moving south. Where they are headed and how they return are also puzzles.

Three sandhill cranes spending a brief stop-over in the Metochin area also were of considerable interest to local birders. These stately travellers are seldom seen in our area. Numbers of them move northward through British Columbia each spring to nesting areas on the Arctic coast. Presumably they use an inland route at this season since a few birds are occasionally spotted in the Okanagan in April and May but individuals are rarely reported along the coast in spring.

Dr. Carl

While most of the cranes migrating through British Columbia apparently nest in the Arctic some may actually breed in this province. There are a number of nesting records for such scattered places as Quinsom Lake, Lulu Island, Oyster River and Puntchesakut Lake but none is more recent than 1946. Perhaps this rather shy bird is being forced to restrict its breeding grounds to less disturbed areas.

The sandhill is a true crane and is not to be confused with our abundant heron which some persons call "crane." Both birds are somewhat similar, in having long legs and a long neck but otherwise they are very different. The crane has a shorter bill than does the heron and has a bald reddish crown on the head. When it flies the neck is held fully extended while the heron always carries the head drawn in to the shoulders in flight. Moreover, cranes frequent fields and similar open areas where they feed upon grain, insects, molluscs and similar items while herons haunt the shorelines in search of fishes, frogs and other aquatic animals.

Another interesting "find" last week was a pair of Clark's nutcrackers. This member of the crow family is a permanent resident of the interior of British Columbia but occasionally a few individuals are spotted on Vancouver Island. It prefers the coniferous forest near timberline and is found fairly commonly in such areas throughout the southern portion of the province. Why it has never spread to similar habitats on Vancouver Island is not known. The two birds spotted recently near Metochin are probably "casual," or "accidental" visitors. Nutcrackers are definitely crow-like in general appearance. They are smaller than the common crow and are readily recognized by their grey body and black wings each with a prominent white patch. They are named after Captain Wm. Clark of the famous Lewis and Clark expedition.

Such birds would be a definite asset to our fauna if they should ever become established on Vancouver Island.

Send questions in natural history to Dr. Cliff Carl, care of the Victoria Daily Times.

The Chimney-Pots of Paris No Longer to Belch Defiantly

PARIS—As the days grow shorter and crisper and France basks in an Indian summer, one's thoughts turn to Paris in winter when the eccentric chimney-pots, which are among the last traces of people's jealously-guarded individuality, belch defiantly into the sky.

This year it will be different.

The ministry of health announces that pollution of Paris air with smoke from private chimneys is to be forbidden. Coal merchants must not sell certain types of coal which emit foul fumes on combustion and which would quickly soot the newly-cleaned buildings with smuts.

Air pollution is a side effect of the affluent society. The swish 16th Arrondissement in Paris is the worst offender in polluting the air and has been declared an emergency zone. In New York it was estimated last year that 1,250,000 tons of sulphur gas, the most dangerous of pollution gases, choked the air. In Paris, which is not an industrial city, the pollution figure is about a sixth of New York's, but the population density of Central Paris is about twice that of New York. In fact the French capital, it is claimed, is the most densely populated city in the world.

Open spaces such as cemeteries now face extinction in the interests of building development. Paris is threatened with worse pollution, for open spaces are the most valuable weapon against it. As a journalist recently wrote, "Hail, Paris, the city which gives more oxygen to its dead than to the living."

Pollution from motor fuels is increasing. The newly-cleaned Arch at the Porte de St. Denis is already blackened with diesel fumes. The experts disagree about the level at which pollution is dangerous to human beings. The accepted international standard is between 20 and 110 milligrams of carbon monoxide per cubic metre.

Nouvel Observateur, in a recent survey, said the pollution level permitted for exhaust fumes in Mont Blanc tunnel is already about 170 milligrams per cubic metre. The moral is, not to be jammed in the Mont Blanc tunnel nor to spend too long in the Paris traffic jams.

GALLUP POLL

Negro Voters Forming Solid U.S. Political Bloc

By the American Institute of Public Opinion

The expectation is that up to a million Negroes will be added to the United States' voting lists and their votes will have an important impact nationally.

Negroes represent the most solid voting bloc in the country and their votes go to the Democrats. In the 1964 election 94 out of every 100 votes cast by American Negroes were given to President Johnson.

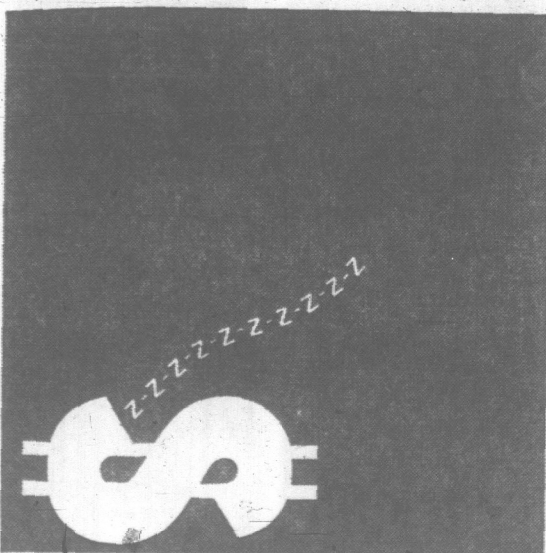

In earlier presidential races, Negroes have supported the Democratic candidate, but by smaller majorities. For example, they gave 68% of their vote to John Kennedy in 1960, as opposed to 32% for Richard Nixon. In 1956, when the nation as a whole gave a big majority to General Eisenhower, the non-white vote went to Adlai Stevenson by a vote of 61% to 39%.

This is a dramatic change since 1940. Twenty-five years ago, whites and non-whites divided about the same way politically. In 1940, 44% of non-whites voted for the Democrats; 37% for the Republicans and 19% Independent.

Here is the question asked and the replies today:

Non-white voters	Democrat	Republican	Independent
	79%	9%	12%

'Freeloading' Halt Seen in Metro Bill

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Wednesday the government's new "mini-metro" bill may help in getting rid of "freeloading" municipalities that don't pay hospital costs.

He told the B.C. Hospitals Association convention here: "There are far too many free-loaders in this province in the use of hospitals."

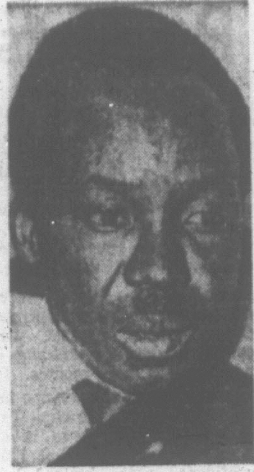

Often one municipality had to carry the full cost of a hospital that was used by persons from all the surrounding municipalities without any payment by the surrounding municipalities. Mr. Campbell also said 12 study groups throughout B.C. are surveying the possibilities of some form of metro government.

Health Minister Martin told delegates the province is having its biggest year in hospital construction but Vancouver and Victoria are lagging.

Hospital construction valued at $6,356,000 already has been completed this year, $15,000,000 more in projects now is being spent and another $50,000,000 in new hospitals or additions is being planned, he said.

Total construction bill last year was less than $5,000,000. The minister also charged that Vancouver had been lagging in taking initiative on new construction for continuing and chronic care.

RE-ELECTED for another five-year term was President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania. He polled 96 per cent of votes cast. He was also the only candidate.

300 ITEMS READY FOR AUCTION

It's Auction Time Again for Kiwanis Club

The 1965 Kiwanis Television Auction is timed to go on the air Wednesday, Oct. 6.

The auction this year will be viewed on channel 6 television only. Bidding time is 6:30 p.m.

It will be the seventh auction sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Victoria since 1954.

Over the years the club has raised in excess of $25,000 for charity projects such as the upkeep of school patrol equipment, the Kiwanis Villa, scholarships and bursaries, 4-H clubs, youth work and a library service for shut-ins.

Auction chairman, Kiwanian Bert Nelson believes the club should meet its 1965 goal of $5,000.

In excess of 300 lots will be put on the block in the studio facilities of CHEK TV. Feature lot of the night will be a 1966 Ford Falcon completely equipped and carrying a two-year total warranty.

All merchandise will be new and is donated by merchants of Greater Victoria. In addition to small and heavy appliances, the lots will include car accessories, vouchers for services, fashion apparel and many other items.

Kiwanians will receive the bids over a 12-line telephone hook-up. The number to dial will be 386 2181. High bids will be decided arbitrarily by the chief auctioneer, no matter what the amount of the bid may be. The television auction is one of many fund-raising projects of the Kiwanis Club.

Labor Survives Union Assault

Policy to Control Wages, Prices Brings Major Challenge at Meet

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson's Labor leadership narrowly survived a powerful assault by dissatisfied trade unions and left wing delegates as the party conference today accepted the government's policy to restrain increases in wages and prices.

A resolution to reject the administration's plan to impose a form of wage and price controls was beaten by a bloc vote of 3,635,000 against 2,540,000. The number of votes against the government, however, was the largest on any issue during the current conference.

The 1,600 delegates cast votes for all the membership of the unions and other groups they represent.

INDICATES DISLIKE

It was an indication of the widespread dislike of the policy within the party's rank and file. Major unions, including the Transport and General Workers and the Amalgamated Engineering Union, combined to fight the government's plan. They were backed by leftists who are angered by the party's drift to the right since the Socialists came to power a year ago.

Economics Minister George Brown got a prolonged standing ovation when he assured delegates he would not freeze wages.

"This is not a wage freeze," he said. "What I want is the planned and orderly growth of incomes related to a planned and orderly growth of production."

"We have been operating the law of the jungle ourselves, while condemning it for every other purpose."

Clive Jenkins, head of a white-collar union of supervisors to which Prime Minister Wilson belongs, led the attack on Brown's policy.

He called for "a quickening conscience, socialist sentiment" in the conference and urged a vote against the incomes policy.

The policy would require trade unions and industries to give the government advance notice about claims for price or wage increases. This would enable the government's five-month-old national prices and incomes board to apply restraint through pressure and persuasion.

The policy was attacked earlier this month at separate annual meetings of the Trades Union Congress and the Confederation of British Industries. The unions finally gave half-hearted support by voting to submit proposed wage demands to a TUC committee for inspection and the confederation decided reluctantly to co-operate with the government.

A rally organized by the left-wing Journal Tribune Wednesday night featured angry attacks on government policy by a succession of speakers, including Michael Foot, Sydney Silverman and Ian Mikardo, all members of Parliament.

Another Labor MP, Reg Freeman, said he and 40 others are "seriously considering" whether to vote against the government's immigration plan in Parliament. But there are signs of lack of cohesion among the radical left.

Two Businessmen Get All Shares of CJOR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver businessmen James A. Pattison and Ralph Cunningham Wednesday bought radio station CJOR outright for $459,000. They purchased 29,891 shares from CJOR president Mrs. Marie Chandler and 28,061 shares from minority shareholders.

A recommendation by the Board of Broadcast Governors, approved by Transport Minister Pickersgill, had stipulated only that the new owners acquire 51 per cent of the shares by Oct. 15 and the remainder over the next five years.

Pattison said John Donaldson will continue to manage CJOR.

He said Mr. Donaldson, news and editorial director Alex Young, general sales manager Jerry Altman and account executive Keith McMyrn will be given the chance to acquire shares.

The sale of CJOR became necessary after the BBG said it would not recommend renewal of CJOR's licence under the management of Mrs. Chandler.

Exclusive Race Course Bars Chinese

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Chinese racegoers have been barred from entering the members' enclosure at South Africa's exclusive Turffontein racecourse here after years of being admitted without question.

This is the latest controversial decision affecting Johannesburg's 2,000 - strong Chinese community who live a puzzling half white, half non-white existence under South Africa's race laws.

The restriction on Chinese entering the members' enclosure at Turffontein was imposed when the turf club decided it must obey the government's proclamation restricting mixed audiences.

POLICE SEEK HOAXER IN WILKINSON ESCAPE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police said Wednesday they are looking for a man who hoaxed them into searching for a jail escapee on the lower mainland. They are looking for Barry Wyatt, 23, who told them and the press that Stanley Heron was in the Vancouver area 24 hours after he escaped from jail. Heron and murder suspect David Robinson, 24, escaped from Wilkinson Road jail in Saanich last Wednesday.

35 LISTENERS WALK OUT

Sidney Roads Bylaw Given a Rough Ride

By HUMPHREY DAVY

Three Sidney commissioners were grilled by ratepayers at a special council meeting Wednesday over an $85,000 road improvement bylaw.

Ratepayers will vote on the bylaw Monday.

They faced an audience of about 200, sharply divided on the merits of the proposal.

While the meeting was orderly, it broke up shortly after Commissioner Andries Boas declined to explain a technical clause in the bylaw.

There were shouts, "Come on, no, no—we want you, Boas." About 35 people walked out.

TWO-MONTH FIGHT

The program has been a subject of controversy since its introduction by council in August.

The overall cost of the program is $185,000. Apart from the $85,000 loan bylaw, council will borrow an additional $47,000 and use $53,000 from revenues to complete the project in the next few years.

One section of the community is opposed to the bylaw on the grounds that it was hastily conceived and not submitted to council's long-range planning committee.

Adding to the controversy was the resignation of village chairman A. A. Cormack and Commissioner F. S. B. Heward who quit because they had not been consulted on the bylaw.

The bylaw was proposed and endorsed by Commissioners Boas, Douglas Taylor and L. R. Christian.

Mr. Boas urged ratepayers to support the bylaw, pointing out Sidney was badly in need of roads in view of expanding population.

He said little road work had been undertaken over the years and unless something was done immediately to improve streets,

Sidney would be faced with serious traffic problems.

He warned construction costs would be higher if the road program was delayed.

Mr. Taylor said some narrow roads and ditches were hazards to school children.

When asked by a ratepayer why the program had not been submitted to the planning committee and $45,000 taken from the current budget to start the project, he answered the question was "political."

He felt the question was a matter for debate in the December elections.

BEST INTERESTS

Mr. Christian said the bylaw had been prepared in the best interest of the community and expressed the hope it would receive full support Monday.

One ratepayer wanted to ask consulting engineer Russell Potter if he had been given him time to consult the water board, the ferry service and the highways department in preparing the road pattern for the program.

Village chairman J. H. Larocque ruled the question out of order.

He said questions should be directed to the commissioners only.

What broke up the meeting was a question asked by Mr. Heward. He pointed out that council, in a pamphlet, stated the program would not result in a tax increase.

He added, a clause in the bylaw read: "that during the currency of said debentures there shall be levied and raised each year, the annual carrying charges by rate or rates sufficient therefore over and above other rates, upon all land and improvements, subject to taxation for general municipal purposes."

"How do you reconcile this clause with your statement?" Mr. Heward asked.

Mr. Boas replied the question was technical and involved, and should be answered by the village clerk.

His reply was greeted with shouts of "no, no."

Village chairman Larocque said regardless of whether the program was sound or not, every eligible voter should turn out and vote.

He urged residents to leave out personalities when they cast their vote on Monday.

Promoters Push Genoa Bay Marina Plans

MAPLE BAY—Promoters of a marina and trailer court at near-by Genoa Bay are holding open house for the next 10 days to advance their scheme.

Albert Bishop and Godfrey Daniels, two of four Calgary men putting up money to build the marina, will show films of similar schemes and discuss plans with interested homeowners.

From their Maple Bay Inn headquarters they will try to convince locals that their scheme is not going to detract from the area's natural beauty.

Meanwhile, Ladysmith alderman John Cochran this week told council:

"If North Cowichan turns down a proposed development at Genoa Bay we should inquire what the syndicate wants."

The Calgary syndicate cannot go ahead with the $270,000 marina and trailer court until the necessary 25 acres is rezoned commercial.

Municipal council has still to give the necessary bylaw third and final readings.

More protests are lined up for a Monday meeting of Maple Bay ratepayers.

COUNCIL DELAYS DECISION

Teen Town Asks for Free Land

DUNCAN—City's teen town organization Wednesday night asked council to give them land on which to build a hall.

Council reaction committee is to ask the teen-age group to first produce a sketch plan of the proposed building and details of their financial, construction and maintenance plans.

Teenage "city clerk" Sue Falconberg requested a site on the vacant 10 acres lying south of Centennial Heights sub-division.

Ald James Saunders said he was certain the land there was unsuitable for a large building.

Council should get an engineer's report before making any commitment, he said.

Mayor Jack Dobson said the land could be built on but construction would be costly.

He said: "Perhaps the teenagers have a Fairy Godmother."

Mayor Dobson added: "Maybe they feel if they can get the land first they can take it from there."

This is exactly what the teen town organization thinks.

Adult advisor Jim Quaife said: "There's no use us getting commitments from people if the city is going to turn down our request."

LAWNS

By far the cheapest and best fertilizer for your lawn and shrubs is weedfree topsoil. If applied as a top-dressing (one yard for every 600 sq. feet) it will after three yearly applications develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made in the days not so long ago when we had not yet heard of chemical fertilizers. Topdressed lawns are moreover far less vulnerable to weeds and, most important of all, require less watering. One 50-lb. bag of chemical fertilizer costing $4.00 contains only 8 pounds of plant food. In comparison, you can buy for the same $4.00 2,500 pounds of weedfree topsoil, of which every pound helps to build up a good lawn.

When buying topsoil insist upon soil free of weeds and clay. The cost of doweeding is such that apart from the health hazards involved it does not pay to buy topsoil containing seeds of weeds.

Two inches of weedfree topsoil are also minimum requirements for making a good weedfree new lawn. For best quality topsoil that is free of weeds and clay, contact:

Don't Worry About Those '12.0 Hands'

By DAVE BRADY

DALLAS, Tex.—"You are pigeon-toed," a visitor remarked to Bob Hayes, slightly amazed that Hayes nevertheless is the "world's fastest human," as they always say of a record-holder in the sprints.

"That's right," Hayes said, barely clearing one foot past the other as he trotted into conversation range.

"You're cold?" he was asked since he was the only Dallas player wearing a nylon jacket in the bright sunlight.

"Right again. I'm from Florida," Hayes replied. The temperature was in the high 60s at a recent Cowboy practice.

"And you're too small to play pro football," Hayes was told.

"I am. The other day the trainer thought I had a hurt hamstring and he said, 'let me see that leg muscle.' I said, 'what muscle?'"

Actually, Hayes is a big fellow for an Olympic champion dash man, deep chested and bull-shouldered at 184 pounds and 5 feet, 11 inches. "Besides, I got bad hands," he said in the college all-star camp—9.0 speed and 12.0 hands.

"Otto Graham said that," Hayes said. "But look at Bob's hand." Hayes showed the still-encrusted scar of a gash between the middle and ring fingers on his right hand. "Craig Morton split it in the all-star camp with a hard pass," Hayes said, nodding toward Morton, who is now a rookie Cowboy quarterback.

The hand was no handicap when flanker Hayes gathered a quick flare pass from quarterback Don Meredith and went 45 yards for a touchdown against the New York Giants, adjusting his speeds as if he had a stick shift in his hand instead of a football.

"You can't use all your speed at once in football," Hayes said when asked why he is making good with the pros while other olympians—Frank Budd, Ray Norton, and Glenn Davis—failed. "You have to wait for your blockers or you get killed. Course, when you get a little running room, that's another story. But those defensive backs are pretty fast, too."

Hayes was visibly annoyed by previous reference to his having "bad hands." He said, "I had them walked on in scrimmages, jammed in collisions, and split by a pass in the all-star camp, but I didn't have any trouble catching the ball at Florida A&M."

A&M coach Jake Gaither has a pithy explanation for the success of Hayes: "Bob was not an Olympic champion who became a football player, unlike the others; but a football player who became an olympian."

Hayes recalled that the Florida A&M track coach was the line coach in football and he invited Hayes to try the dashes after seeing him beat other sprinters during wind sprints in the football season.

Hayes Gives 'Em An Early Answer

The Cowboys selected Hayes as a "future" in the 1963 draft. They knew he had played as a running back in high school and college and they were satisfied that he could be a flanker when they saw him catch passes in post-season games last year.

What they wondered was, could he "catch the ball in a crowd" and hold on to it with pros belting him from the blind side. They got their answer against the Giants. Three Giants had cheap shots at him while he waited for a pass that hung before he wrestled it away from the clawing defenders at the 10-yard line. Somehow, Hayes shook them and ran over the goal line, but the play was nullified by a holding penalty.

Coach Tom Landry could not have cared less about the penalty after the 31-2 victory because Hayes had demonstrated another facet of the complete football player.

A chief reason the Cowboys have a remote hope of selling out the 75,000-seat Cotton Bowl Sunday is the automatic suspense that is transmitted every time Hayes and exciting Mel Renfro line up to return kicks.

When coach Landry was making his long-range plans for this season there was a temptation to strike fear into the hearts of the opposition by capitalizing on the speed of Hayes along with Renfro, last year's sensation.

Bob's Blocking Asset to Cowboys

But Landry reflected on the necessity of one kick returner being able to make that first big block for the other. Came an exhibition game against the San Francisco 49ers and Renfro caught a kickoff with just enough room to warrant running the ball out of the end zone.

As soon as he took a step, a 240-pound tackler was within five yards of Renfro. Suddenly he was not, because Hayes had cut him down. Hayes repeated the exercise last Sunday against a beefy enthusiast on the Giants' "suicide" squad and Renfro got off a 37-yard runback.

Today Hayes is a married man with a budding future as representative for a soft-drink firm, and in the off-season he will devote his time between public relations and continuing his education at A&M.

Prospective fame is no sure bet to determine his sense of values. "I got more kick scoring a winning touchdown for our football team than winning those gold medals in the Olympics, despite all the fuss when they presented them."

Curator of Cripples Has 'Green Again' Season

By HAL MALONE

The way C. R. "Bob" Elliott's luck is running, he could fall into an open manhole and come up wearing nasturtiums in his hair.

Just before the end of the Exhibition Park meeting, C. R. was offered Green Again, a gelding with a lengthy record of splendid mediocrity.

"Green Again" was bred to run a little. And he did—just a little. He had one bad wheel-knee to you, Horntense, and three-legged horses don't pay the mortgage.

"I got him for $50," Bob Elliott was saying at Sandown Wednesday. "No, make that $52.50, after sales tax."

Elliott promptly turned Green Again out on his Alder-grove farm.

"I honestly didn't know what to do with him," Elliott says. "But if anybody had offered me $300 for him I would have grabbed it."

Nobody did. When Elliott decided to ship to Sandown, Green Again wasn't included in his plans.

"He asked me whether he should bring the horse," racing secretary Stan Goddard was saying, "and I said he might as well."

Elliott entered his supposed liability on Sept. 22. Showing uncommon courage he battled his way to the lead and strolled in at 12 to 1. Enter purse monies of $425, plus bonus of about $125, on the ledger.

CARRYING THE LAUNDRY?

Fred Hume, Partners Seek NHL Membership

VANCOUVER (CP)—A second bid for a National Hockey League franchise was announced here Wednesday night by the owner of the Vancouver Canucks in partnership with a group of businessmen.

The application was filed by Fred Hume, owner of the Western Hockey League Canucks and a member of the hockey Hall of Fame.

One of the businessmen in partnership with Hume is Cyrus McLean, chairman of the British Columbia Telephone Co., who also is a director of Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

NOT IDENTIFIED

The nine other businessmen involved in the bid were not identified by the Canucks.

The first bid for an NHL franchise for Vancouver was filed by a group headed by industrialist Frank McMahon.

McLean said there is no shortage of money among the Canucks group.

GOT MONEY

"Naturally, we picked people with money. But they include some Vancouver people who have a yen for getting things done without necessarily trying to make money."

He added that an NHL franchise would "just be a licence to lose money for a while." It will take a lot of money to establish a team, and we're willing to help build an arena if we can.

ARENA SOON

Almost all the money needed for a 16,000-seat NHL-size arena here has been pledged to the Pacific National Exhibition, owners of the Forum where WHL games are played.

EAST LACROSSE TURNS INTO A 'SISSY'S GAME'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—"They're making lacrosse a sissy's game in Ontario," says Keith Jackson, coach of the western junior lacrosse champions.

"They're trying to take all the contact out of it," Jackson said in an interview Wednesday on the return of his New Westminster Salmonbellies.

They lost the best-of-seven Canadian junior final in six games to Oshawa Green Gables.

Jackson said his club had the same problem in Oshawa as Brooklyn, Ont. Merchants had in their national senior final here. The senior New Westminster squad won that seven-game series 4-3.

"I understand Brooklyn complained bitterly about the difference in the interpretation of the rules here. I can understand the problem. In Ontario they're calling penalties for breathing heavy."

Jackson said he didn't think the difference in refereeing beat his team. "We lost because we didn't play as well as we could have."

Change of Heart By School Board

Greater Victoria School Board Wednesday night reversed a previous decision and voted to allow a teacher five days' leave of absence to accompany a touring Russian Olympic volleyball team.

Donald Smyth, a teacher at Victoria Secondary School, is also president of the Canadian Volleyball Association, sponsors of a Canadian tour by Russian, United States, and Canadian Olympic volleyball teams.

Mr. Smyth is to be Canada's representative with the Russian team.

The teams will hold demonstrations and clinics at Memorial Arena, Oct. 15 to start the tour.

The board's decision was reversed by a narrow margin of one vote.

It was previously defeated by a vote of five to three, but Wednesday night one of the dissenters was absent and another trustee changed his mind.

In another decision the board refused an application for three weeks' leave of absence by another teacher, Charlotte Pearson, 3485 Henderson, to accompany her husband to Europe on a business trip.

Koufax' Fork-Ball (And Others) Puts Dodgers Two Ahead

Associated Press

Sandy Koufax, whose dazzling curve and fast ball have brought him just about everything a pitcher could want, now has a fork-ball.

He displayed it Wednesday night, pitching a two-hitter and gaining his 25th triumph as Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Cincinnati Reds 5-0 for their 12th straight victory and increased their National League lead to two games over San Francisco Giants.

The Giants lost 8-6 to St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday and now face a four-game, season-ending series with Cincinnati. The Dodgers play their last four games with Milwaukee Braves. If they win only two of them, the Giants have to sweep all four of theirs to gain a tie.

"It's hard to tell one game of Sandy's from another, he's so consistent," Dodger manager Walter Alston said after the game.

But there was one difference—the forkball. And Koufax was appropriately proud of it.

GOT THEM OVER

"I had a good curve, and my control was as good as it's been all year," the left-hander said. "Then I threw five or six forkballs—got 'em over, too."

Koufax, 29, has been experimenting with the pitch this season but had thrown it only once or twice in any game before Wednesday night.

It only foreshadowed worse things to come for Dodger opponents, who have stood by almost helplessly while Koufax has compiled a major league record of 369 strikeouts, eight shutouts, and 26 complete games in 40 starts this season.

Koufax' 25 victories also equal his personal high achieved in 1963 when he won the Cy Young Award. He lost five that year compared with eight this season. He also reduced his earned-run average to 2.06 as the Dodgers eliminated the third-place Reds from contention.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed New York Mets 4-2, Milwaukee Braves beat Houston Astros 5-1 and Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 7-6.

STUCK OUT 13

Koufax, who struck out 13, allowed only singles by Vada Pinson in the fourth and Deron Johnson in the seventh. The Dodgers' big blow was Maury Wills' three-run triple in the seventh off Jim Maloney, now 20-9.

"The Giants went down to their sixth defeat in the last eight games despite a six-run rally in the ninth. Bob Gibson, 19-12, held them to two hits until that inning, but Curt Simmons and Hal Woodeshick had to come on before the Cardinals got out of it."

What pitcher is striking out batters at a faster clip than Koufax.

None other than Sam McDowell of Cleveland Indians, whose individual performances have been overshadowed in recent weeks by the American League pennant race. Without fanfare, he has joined Koufax as a member of the exclusive 300-strikeout club.

McDowell, 23, in only his second full major league season, raised his strikeout total to 318 Wednesday night by fanning 12 in a five-hit, 5-3 victory over New York Yankees.

The left-hander, who has a 17-10 record with a league-leading 217 earned-run average, has struck out 10 or more batters in 17 games this season and is only the fifth pitcher in major league history to hit the 300-strikeout plateau.

Only Koufax in the NL and Rube Waddell, Walter Johnson and Bob Feller in the AL have reached that level.

While McDowell was adding to his laurels, champion Minnesota Twins ended Baltimore's nine-game winning streak by edging the Orioles 3-2, Jim Hanan of Washington Senators five-hit Kansas City Athletics 9-0 and Boston Red Sox edged California Angels 2-1. Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers were idle.

Emms Threatens Fines for Laxity

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League season doesn't open for another three weeks. All six clubs still have players to sign. But Boston Bruins are playing for money, as of now.

The news was broken to the Bruins' Wednesday by Hap Emms, their general manager, and it wasn't exactly greeted with cheers. For the money they'll be playing for is their own.

Before sending his players on to the ice at London, Ont., for a scheduled 90-minute workout that ran overtime, Emms told them anyone sent off the ice by coach Milt Schmidt for laxity would be fined $50.

Schmidt said afterwards he was pleased by the response. Emms, who comes to the last-place Bruins after leading Niagara Falls Flyers, their junior farm club, to the Memorial Cup, took personal charge of a defensive drill.

SIGNS FOUR

The 61-year-old general manager also signed four players—defencemen Leo Boivin and forwards Ed Westfall, Ron Schock and Tommy Williams.

At Montreal, coach Toe Blake praised his Stanley Cup champion Canadiens for their offensive efforts and, in the next breath, criticized his goaltenders and defencemen for making the scoring achievements possible.

Captain Jean Beliveau, hero of the playoffs last spring, scored two goals in Wednesday's workout, as did Dave Babin, John Ferguson and Yvan Cournoyer. Goaltender Charlie Hodge, defenceman Terry Harper and wingers Claude Larose and Dick Duff signed their contracts during the day.

At Peterborough, where Punch Imlach is still juggling players to determine Toronto Maple Leafs' lineup, the coach said he will rest centres Red Kelly and Ed Joyal and rookie leftwinger Brit Selby for tonight's exhibition game against New York Rangers.

Tim Horton, one of Toronto's top defencemen, will be moved up to right wing for the game and rookie forwards Terry Clancy and Mike Walton will be in action.

... BOB ELLIOTT'S KEY TO SUCCESS

Bob Elliott's cripples may get the aches and pains now and then, but the boss feels fine as long as the green cabbage pile grows and grows and grows.

How does he do it? Lots of rubbing the legs and good wintering. We have 300 acres near Lillooet. Take the stock there every winter and turn them out. They romp in snow and that icy water does 'em a world of good. Much better than staying down here where it rains so much and letting them muck in the mud. Nuthin' worse for a horse than that mud.

During racing season if they aren't going good, I send them out to our place in Aldergrove. That's what we did with Green Again. A few days there and he seemed to come to himself. Full of beans.

He still is.

shape than Rommel's troops at El Alamein.

Elliott won six heats at Vancouver with Fuddy's Orphan, a disaster case looking for a funeral parlor. Fuddy had bowed tendons and suspensory trouble.

"He was down to his knees when I took him. What did I pay? Nothing. They were going to destroy him." All Fuddy earned this summer was $10.517.

With Johnie Hawk, Elliott has won three races, and nearly $3,800. This one had floating bone chips in a front leg.

With those rejects and other horses, notably Read II who has won five races, Elliott's purse situation as of Wednesday

Last Saturday, Elliott found another spot for Green Again. He just made it. Another $550 in the old sock.

Wednesday, Green Again drew the outside of a fair field. "I didn't think he had much of a shot of it from there," Elliott admitted.

Neither did the punters. They let him go at 7 to 1. For a cripple, Green Again went pretty well. Grabbed the lead and disappeared. On the board—$16.20. In Elliott's account—$550.

This has been the story of Elliott's life, circa 1965. Green Again was his 24th winner of the B.C. season.

Half of that sum has been achieved by basket cases, horses in not much better

BOWLER OF THE WEEK

One Big Night All You Need To Trip Stars

Just two more days and the big bowling scramble gets under way.

People who scatter fivepins and tenpins will start Saturday on southern Vancouver Island lanes in the second annual "Bowler of the Week" competition staged by The Daily Times.

Launched two years ago by the Times in an effort to stir up even greater interest in the growing maple-mauling pastime, the 27-week series will again wind up with a flourish next May with a "Bowlers of the Year."

Everyone who tosses bowling balls down the boards in league competition can get into the act.

Each week of the competition will run from Saturday until the following Friday night. Pin-busters rolling top three-game scratch scores in each of four divisions during regular league play will be named "Bowlers of the Week."

CASH BONUSES

Their pictures and scores will appear in the Times and each will be eligible to compete in the Bowlerama for trophies and cash bonuses. Any of the four champions in the Bowlerama who is a subscriber to the Times will receive a bonus award of $100.

Bowlers will again compete in four divisions — men's and women's fivepins, and men's and women's tenpins — at lanes in Greater Victoria, Sidney, Duncan, Sooke, Chemainus, Lake Cowichan and Youbou.

No contestant may win more than one Bowler-of-the-Week award in any division. This will make 27 bowlers in each division eligible for each of the four finals.

CHANCE FOR ALL

Should a former winner top a weekly list, the runner-up will qualify for the rolloff and the weekly award. In the event of a tie in any week, the bowler with the highest single-game score will be named the winner.

League secretaries will be responsible for submitting high scores to lanes' managers, who, in turn, will forward leading scores to the Times.

Although experts will again have the best chances of grabbing bowler-of-the-week awards, competition during the past two winters has proved that almost all pin-belters have a chance to grab places in the rolloffs.

SURPRISES PLENTIFUL

Surprises have been plentiful during the first two contests. It just takes "one of those nights" when everything seems to go right to propel almost any bowler out in front.

SECOND ACE FOR GRAHAM

Graham Chambers experienced a golfer's greatest thrill — a hole-in-one — for the second time in a year Wednesday.

Chambers, secretary of Northwest Seniors' Association, aced the eighth hole at Victoria Golf Club while playing with George Bond, Robbie Robinson and John Sturdy. Chambers' first ace came last Thanksgiving Day.

In each of the past two seasons, several of the city's more noted rollers have failed to make the grade. A few were left on the sidelines both times. That's the way it will probably be again. Many of the average guys and gals of the lanes will leave the stars behind in weekly competitions.

All it takes is one of those happy nights.

Otto Tripped By Jelineks' Injury Jinx

TORONTO (CP) — Otto Jelinek, who won the world pairs figure skating championship for Canada with his sister in 1962, suffered two broken bones in his left foot when he fell down a flight of stairs in Rochester, N.Y., Tuesday, it was learned here.

Maria, who with her brother now is a member of the Ice Capades skating show, suffered a cracked pelvis during a performance in Atlantic City, N.J., five weeks ago.

There is no indication when the Jelineks will be able to rejoin the show. Otto was in Rochester to publicize On Thin Ice, a book about the Jelineks.

'Y' Hoping to Revive Amateur Wrestling

Because of the lack of facilities, amateur wrestling has been one of Victoria's "lost sports" in recent years.

Now, says athletic director Art Burgess from his place in the new YMCA building, there's a chance for a revival.

To that end, the Y will sponsor a wrestling clinic on Oct. 9. "Main-events" in the clinic will be coach Paul Nemeth and wrestlers Glen Smith and Bruce Green of the University of British Columbia. Green, a 125-pounder, recently represented Canada in the world championships at Manchester, England.

Hull Rejoins Hawk Camp

CHICAGO (AP)—Bobby Hull, the Golden Jet of the National Hockey League, rejoined Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday after patching up his feud with the management over dressing-room policy.

Hull quit the Hawk training camp Saturday when his two sons, Blake, 5, and Bobby, 4, were barred from the dressing room.

"There was a misunderstanding which had been patched up," said Hull after a conference with general manager Tommy Ivan.

KNOWS NOW

"I understand now why the management wants to keep the dressing room strictly for players during training. We have a lot of young players trying to make the team and they shouldn't be distracted."

The conference also included talk on the star player's 1965-66 salary, but Hull scoffed at reports he was asking for $100,000.

SOME CONFUSION

Hull, who received an estimated $30,000 last season, said confusion was caused by his alleged mention of a $100,000 salary in an interview at Hawaii last winter.

Hull stressed his walkout was not over salary but strictly over banning of his boys from the Hawk dressing room.

NOT FAR

"On the salary matter, Ivan said 'a lot of figures were tossed around, but we're not far apart.'"

Ivan said Hull would not be disciplined for his four-day absence. The peace parley was started by Hull, who visited the Chicago stadium camp during Hawk practice and sought out Ivan.

Oak Bay Powerhouse Posts Second Shutout

Oak Bay's green- and- white machine is rolling in high gear along the high school soccer trail.

Oak Bay, defending B.C. champion, scored its second straight shutout Wednesday by routing Esquimalt 6-0.

Last Friday the Bays blanked arch-rival Victoria Tynes 3-0. The Tynes hit the victory column Wednesday with a 2-1 decision over Claremont while Mount View and Mount Douglas scrambled to a 1-1 draw in the day's other game.

League action continues Friday. Headlining a three-game schedule will be the Claremont-Mount View meeting under the lights at Royal Athletic Park. The Bays will be at home to Mount Douglas while Esquimalt visits Victoria in afternoon fixtures.

MOFFAT SCORES TWO
Oak Bay pretty well had its own way against Esquimalt, getting two goals from Glen Moffat and one each from Ike McKay, Pete Songhurst, Brian Howe and Brian Hunter.

Robbie Ross and Palle Poulsen scored the goals that helped Vic High to its initial victory. Brian Broeseed scored Claremont's goal.

In a second division game, Bruce Howe and Paul Baines each scored twice as Oak Bay blanked Claremont 4-0.

Gorge Vale Pair Finally Beaten In Button Play

The long reign of Moke Morgan and Clare Mitchell finally came to an end this week, exactly 118 days after they first won the senior golf buttons.

The potent Gorge Vale combination lost its first match in 17 weeks when Colwood challengers Larry McCooley and Roy Johnston defeated them on the 17th.

McCooley and Johnston will make their first defence against Hugh Smith and Bert Nex of Uplands.

SURTEES CAN RACE AGAIN...

Steering Break Caused Crash

TORONTO (CP) — John Surtees, 31-year-old racing driver from Britain seriously injured Friday while driving at the Mosport track 40 miles east of here, blamed a mechanical failure for his crash, his father-in-law says.

Jack Burke, a company director in Winchester, England, said in an interview he first heard of the crash when a British newspaper writer telephoned him at home Saturday. Surtees' wife, Pat, was staying with her father for the weekend before flying to join her husband at the Canadian Grand Prix.

PINNED UNDER CAR
Surtees, 1964 world champion driver, suffered two fractures and a dislocation of the hips, fractures to the horizontal segments of four vertebrae in the lower back and kidney and other internal injuries when he was pinned under his Lola T70 after it lost a wheel, jumped over a guard rail and spun down a 30-foot embankment.

Doctors say he is in excellent condition and Dr. Paul McGoe, chief surgeon at Scarborough General Hospital, says there is no reason why Surtees should not race again.

Burke, who raced cars as an amateur in his younger days, said his son-in-law told him: "As I came into that downhill curve, I found I had no steering. I said to myself, 'this is it,' and curled up, ready for the crash."

An examination of the wrecked car has shown Surtees' diagnosis was correct.

"I think an upright had snapped on the front suspension and this caused the wheel to collapse."

ONLY THING CLEAR IS BOYS ARE DIRTIER

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Co-education or separated sexes — which is better for grade one?

Principal Len Fowles of North Kamloops elementary school hopes to find the answer. His grade ones have been divided into a room of boys only, a room of girls only, and a room of boys and girls.

So far, the girls appear to be vying for the teacher's approval, resulting in more work being accomplished.

But a very competitive atmosphere also has developed in the all-boy class, perhaps because of the lack of diversion from the girls.

About all that is really clear after the first month is that it's easy to tell the all-boys classroom—from the amount of dirt they track in.

WHITE RULE FOR RHODESIA

Smith's Mission: Force a Final Showdown

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia will arrive here next week for a "final" showdown with Britain on his demands for independence for his white-ruled Central African colony, it was announced here today.

The Commonwealth relations office said Smith and his justice minister, D. W. Lardner-Burke, will arrive in London next week for discussions with the British government.

But a spokesman at the Rhodesian high commission, the colony's London office, said "it has been made clear to the British government that in view of the fact that independence negotiations have dragged on for more than two years, these talks must be final and conclusive."

A confrontation has been expected between Smith, who has threatened to declare independence unilaterally, and Prime Minister Wilson.

The Labor government has declared it would regard such a move as rebellion. It wants eventual majority rule in the colony, where Negroes outnumber whites by 4,000,000 to 250,000.

Although the London announcement gave no details of the exact timing of Smith's arrival or whom he would meet here, it was expected he would open talks with Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley.

Forty-one members of Wilson's Labor party, meeting at Blackpool, called Wednesday night for the use of economic sanctions and force if necessary if Rhodesia declared independence on its own.

CONNOLLY
... "save Canadians"

SENATOR:

'Blackmail' Tactics Likely By Opposition

The "prime, outstanding" issue in the Nov. 8 federal election is majority government, the Liberal leader in the Senate said here Wednesday.

Senator John Connolly of Ottawa said the Liberal government of the last 2½ years did not know from day to day whether it would be the government that night, if the opposition combined.

"They could have put us out of office," he said.

"But they were afraid. They flustered and delayed."

The House of Commons and Parliament itself, because of this, "deteriorated terribly in authority and prestige."

"From now on, we would have seen a beer garden. These opposition parties could have blackmailed the government on any section of any bill if they so desired."

He said Prime Minister Pearson had the constitutional right and moral responsibility to "save the Canadian people from what the opposition parties could have done."

'DANDY' RECORD

He said he would leave it to government ministers to talk about the record—"it's a dandy"—and the "many other things" which have to be done.

"We have to have a mandate to do them," he said.

Senator Connolly was making a one-day visit to Victoria to call on "my old friend" David Gross, the Liberal member in the last Parliament.

Asked if he has any predictions on the election, the Senate leader replied:

"No. I don't believe in the crystal ball. They're too heavy to carry!"

Medicare Key Issue, Says Gordon

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A Liberal victory on Nov. 8 will be regarded as a mandate to implement the proposed medicare scheme, Finance Minister Walter Gordon said Wednesday.

A government defeat would indicate "the people don't want medicare."

In the first of a weekly series of Liberal campaign briefings, Gordon told newsmen that medicare would be given "a lot of emphasis" by Prime Minister Pearson.

Although considerable progress has been made to date on agreeing to the principles of the proposed scheme "there are a great many hurdles to overcome," Gordon said.

He noted that Premier Manning of Alberta was against the method outlined by the government for a universal medicare program.

"Also the Conservatives are not wildly enthusiastic," he said.

To suggest that medicare was not a basic issue of the campaign was like saying the Canada Pension Plan had not been an issue, said Gordon.

Lion, Jaguar Mate

PRETORIA (Reuters) — The first recorded mating of a lion and a female jaguar has occurred at the South African National Zoo here, Director Dr. D. J. Brand announced Wednesday. The lion-jaguar offspring is expected next month.

STIFF FINES LEVIED IN CAMPSITE ROW

SURREY (CP)—A near-riot that moved a campsite operator to protect himself with a rifle led Wednesday to stiff fines against five youths.

Magistrate Harold Keenlyside levied the fines and ordered all five to refrain from drinking until they reach 21. All are 19.

Fined $400 each for being members of an unlawful assembly, and ordered to post $500 peace bonds, were Lawrence Eyre, William Max Forney, Ronald George Anthony and Lawrence Ferster. Joseph Lamontagne was fined $100 for causing a disturbance and had to post a $250 peace bond. All are from suburban areas.

In the incident July 4 at White Rock, Everett Dick and his campers were threatened by a gang of youths and he shot Eyre and Ferster in the leg as he successfully chased them away.

DELEGATES WALK OUT

S.A. Minister Snubbed at UN

By BORIS MISKEV

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Nearly three-quarters of the members of the United Nations—representing the bulk of humanity—showed their distaste for South Africa's racial policies Wednesday by walking out of the 117-nation General Assembly as that country's foreign minister was given the rostrum.

Among the 30 or so delegations who remained were those of Canada, Britain, France and the United States. About 85 delegations quietly left their desks.

The walkout took place when Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller stood up to deliver his country's defence of apartheid (racial segregation).

All the delegations from Africa except South Africa's left as did the Communist bloc members, some Western European delegations, about half of the Latin Americans and all the Asian group except Nationalist China, Thailand and Nepal.

After criticizing the behavior of the delegations who left the assembly, Muller said each country "has the indisputable right to live its own separate life."

IGNORE IDENTITIES

He deplored the "tendency to ignore the separate identities of different peoples and to expect heterogeneous communities to share a common national consciousness and loyalty."

After winding up his address, Muller was given a sympathetic ovation from sections of the public gallery, with feeble applause from the delegates who had remained seated.

Outside the UN, U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk gave a dinner for Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. They explored possible points of agreement between the two countries.

Gromyko, who will be host to Rusk Friday night, said later the meeting had been friendly. Discussions had centred on disarmament, the India-Pakistan conflict and several other matters.

Australia Opposes Seat For Chinese

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters)—Australia has warned that the recognition of Communist China in the United Nations could "destroy the effectiveness of the United Nations and might very well end its whole existence."

Sir James Plimsoll, head of the Australian delegation to the UN General Assembly, said Wednesday the whole policy of Peking would be to drive a wedge between countries which are trying to work together on world problems.

Sir James told the assembly that if Peking had been in the UN "one may conclude with certainty" that it would have used its veto power to block passage of the resolution demanding a ceasefire between India and Pakistan last week.

The "problem of living with China" was of particular importance to Australia and was tied to the whole question of security in Southeast Asia.

"The task of living with China is not a simple question that can be solved by the admission of Communist China to the United Nations," Sir James said.

"It is a regime that is against peaceful co-existence; it is a regime that contemplates nuclear war without viewing it with the horror with which the rest of mankind views it."

Manning's Son Seeks Nomination

EDMONTON (CP)—Preston Manning, 23-year-old son of Premier Manning of Alberta, said this week he will let his name stand for nomination as Social Credit candidate in Edmonton East. The party nomination will be tonight.

FLUORIDATION BEGINS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—New York city begins injecting fluoride into its water system today.

The initial use will result in 84 per cent of the city's public water supply—840,000 gallons—being fluoridated. Other water sources will be fluoridated within the next month.

The ceremonies were expected to be picketed by persons who say sodium fluoride in their drinking water can be dangerous.

The city's decision for fluoridation was contested in court and upheld.

Installation of the fluoridation equipment cost $800,000.

Arthur Mayse

Now is the time when the saltwater sport fishermen comes to the icing on his cake. With tackle light as the caress to risk, he can challenge one of the world's top-rated fighting fish.

This is our own coho salmon, which in these months before the autumn rains call him to his spawning rivers, is larding his silver sides in a last feeding spree.

I am speaking here of the mature coho, doomed by nature to die before the streamside alders have shed their final leaves.

But in these early fall weeks, he is all alive; a pugnacious, moody, hard-hitting demon given to hunting in pairs or packs wherever young herring twinkle or needlessly glide in their close-ranked schools.

He may weigh eight pounds or eighteen. I expect that off some reef or kelp bed crisscrossed by a giant to match or even surpass the yard-long, 31½-pound world record coho taken in 1947 by Mrs. Lee Halberg of Victoria, on the confection known as B.C. coast anglers as a bucktail fly.

I have told you about the big bucks before. To me, they are as much a part of Vancouver Island autumn as smoky moons and wine-tinted dogwood.

This lure is not for the fisherman wedded to the telephone-pole rod and the line that would tether a yearling bull. Correctly fished, however—which is at the end of a leader with a breaking strain of not over 12 pounds—it will often score where the deep troller's cumbersome apparatus fails.

When only a few of us tempted coho with polar bear on a tinsel-wound hook, we were subjected on many a small boat float to the loud howl.

This is no longer the case; in fact bucktailing has become a sub-sport that lures anglers to Cowichan Bay from far and wide each October.

Like all cults, this one has developed its factions.

There are the close-to-the-boat bucktailers who fish in the wake and have even been known to chrome plate their outboard propellers as an inducement to their quarry. Others troll so far back of the wash that when the fly engages a ribbon of eel grass, they tire a wrist winning it in.

Some "work" the fly with long sweeps of the rod as they scamper along at the brisk pace coho usually prefer.

My lazy-man's method, upon which I insist when chaperoning newcomers in coho territory, is to prop the rods securely and growl at the over-eager who snatch before the reel has shrilled its opening aria.

Not often enough used in inland waters is another light tackle technique which salt-water fishermen of the British Columbia mainland and the Pacific states rate high in their bag of coho-catching tricks.

This is strip-casting from an anchored or drifting boat, with gear scarce heavier than the freshwater angler brings to a trout stream.

Experts like provincial biologist Dave Hurn claim that when coho are about, no method is so deadly as flipping a properly-cut herring fillet into a tideway and recovering it in spaced pulls or "strips."

But why all this emphasis on light tackle?

For those of us who use and prefer, such gear, the answers make sense. First, in all but a few very deep reaches such as those of Saanich Inlet, this rigging serves us better than the heavy stuff.

Second, in these years when more anglers pursue less salmon, we propose to get from each hooked fish his full sport potential.

After all, the few salmon we take each season cost us a heck of a lot more than we'd play for them across a counter; and next year the tariff may run higher.

From a whisper in the wind, I expect we'll be taking out those much-discussed saltwater sport fishing licenses before the 1966 coho squadron hits the eight-pound mark. The buzz is that the only points to be settled are how much, and whether the licence will apply to the boat or the individual fisherman.

HELMETS EASING INJURIES

Motor-cycle safety helmets are proving their worth.

According to motor-vehicles superintendent Ray Hadfield, injuries sustained in motor-cycle tumbles are noticeably less serious since helmets became compulsory July 1.

There were no fatalities in the province in August, compared to one last year.

Said Mr. Hadfield: "It's hard to gauge the effort of the helmet accurately. But medical men have told me the injuries are less serious."

Even so, the August accident rate was up .90 per cent on 1964.

Ninety cyclists were injured compared to 47 the previous year.

At the same time, the number of licensed riders had risen from 7,515 to 12,089.

Man Escapes Smoke Death By Minutes

A bedroom fire early this morning almost claimed the life of a Saanich man.

Saanich firemen deputy chief Glen Robbins and Don Shaw found James Blackstock unconscious on the kitchen floor of his smoke-filled home at 1979 Taylor.

Mr. Blackstock, brother of the late city police chief John Blackstock, was reported in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He had apparently managed to get from his blazing bedroom to the kitchen before being overcome by heavy smoke.

Mr. Blackstock was living alone in his one-storey three-bedroom home.

Firemen said he was near death when pulled from the house. A resuscitator was applied immediately and he was rushed to hospital.

Smoking in bed is believed to be the cause of the fire. Mr. Blackstock's bedroom was destroyed and the remainder of the house sustained heavy smoke damage.

Damage is estimated at $2,000.

The alarm was turned in at 12:24 a.m. by passer-by Fred Worthington, 19, of 1461 Derby, a University of Victoria student.

Two units attended and managed to contain the blaze to the bedroom.

Saanich Road Improvements Near Finish

Local improvements totalling $176,000 are nearing completion in Saanich as part of the fall works program.

Saanich engineer Neville Life said today the projects included the widening and paving of Burnside from the city boundary to Harriet Road and Cedar Hill Cross Road from Palo Alto to Shelbourne.

Mr. Life said the final "caping" of the pavement will be left until next year.

Curbs, gutters and drains for both streets likely will be completed within two weeks.

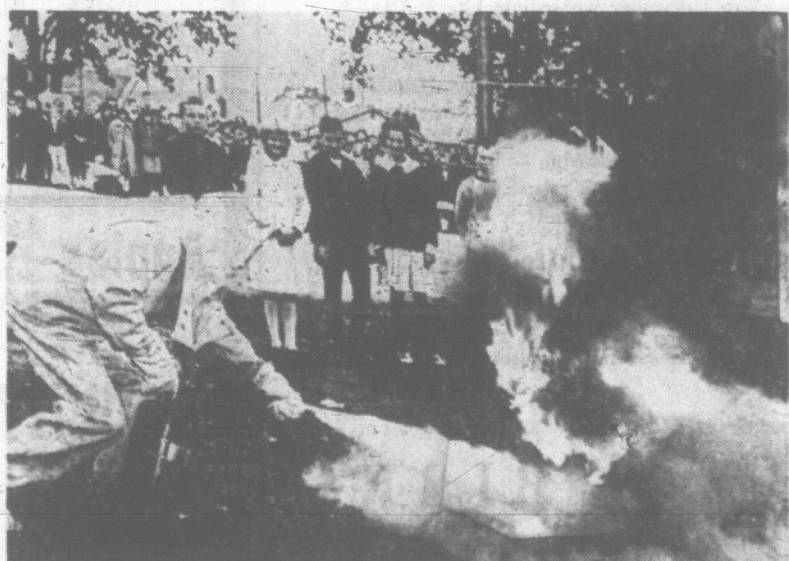

The program also included a considerable amount of work in traffic islands at the Richmond and Shelbourne intersections of Cedar Hill Cross Road.

The land for a planned four-room elementary school has been purchased by Saanich School Board.

The five-acre site which cost $28,000, is located at the north-west corner of Alderley and Cordova Bay Roads.

The new school, Del Monte Elementary, is to be completed by next September.

Vancouver Island police were still on the lookout today for 14-year-old David Richards, missing from his Victoria foster home since Wednesday.

The youngster is believed to have left home riding a bicycle.

He was wearing a black nylon parka, green sweater and grey-green cotton trousers.

Police describe him as looking like a 12-year-old, weight, 100 pounds; 4-foot 10-inch; fair complexion; straight brown hair; dark brown eyes.

They believe he may be in the Saanich area or further up Island.

A man involved in an accident causing $2,700 damage was fined $75 in city police court today for careless driving.

Ronald James Campbell, 1451 Brooke St., pleaded guilty to the charge.

Police said he collided with a car at Broughton and Blanshard and then careened into the front of the Royal Theatre, causing $1,000 damage.

Damage to the two cars involved was $1,700 court was told.

A Victoria woman who reported that a thief had stolen $2,500 worth of jewels has found them in her apartment where she misplaced them.

Posh Housing Plan For Rithet Estate

Engineering and survey work has begun on the 713-acre Rithet property in Royal Oak to turn it into a multi-million dollar housing development over the next 15 years.

Sale of the land to a group of developers for an undisclosed sum was announced overnight by J. R. Genge, president of Rithet Consolidated Ltd.

First portion of the development which will eventually house 6,000 people and cost upwards of $50 million, will be put into effect before next spring.

The developers, headed by Gordon Rolston of Victoria, say they are planning an "Uplands style" development for the property on both sides of Royal Oak Avenue, east of the Patricia Bay Highway.

NUNS TRANSFER

Church Prelate Coming Here For Ceremony

Mother Cecilia Mary and her six nuns will take the final step in changing their religious ties Monday.

Rev. Gerard Greeley, domestic prelate of the North American Old Roman Catholic Church will fly from New Jersey to Victoria to confer holy orders on the seven nuns.

Mother Cecilia and her flock broke away from the Roman Catholic Church last Thursday over a dispute concerning the Good Shepherd Animal shelter which they run.

Rather than give up the shelter, as the Catholic Church insisted they should, they broke away from the church.

Already they have knelt in mass at the tiny shelter chapel and sworn allegiance to their new archbishop, Nelson Hillyer, of Toronto.

FIRST SISTERS

They become the first nuns in the Old Roman Catholic Church which originated in France in 1871.

The church does not recognize the Roman Catholic hierarchy or the doctrine of the Pope's primacy or infallibility.

Meanwhile, Mother Cecilia is preparing to move her shelter in November.

She has her eye on two choice spots between Mill Bay and Duncan.

She decided to move—at a cost of more than $5,000—after being refused permission to build horse stables on her present site at Albert Head.

Mother Cecilia said she expected to pay $30,000 to $40,000 for the new site and home.

17-Year-Old Pleads Guilty In Theft Case

Seventeen-year-old Ronald Leitcher pleaded guilty in city court today to two counts of theft and another of possession of a stolen sweater.

City juvenile officer Norman Galbraith said the youth stole a bottle of after-shave lotion valued at $5.75 from Eaton's Sept. 3.

Sept. 8 he attempted to get a refund on a $9.50 sweater stolen earlier by someone else from the Hudson's Bay Co.

And on Sept. 13 he took two cartons of cigarettes valued at $7.20 from a car in the Empress Hotel parking lot, court was told.

He was remanded by Magistrate William Ostler to Monday for pre-sentence report and sentence.

FEW SMALL GOBBLERS

Small Families Facing Thanksgiving Stuffing

Smaller Victoria families may have difficulty finding a bird for the oven this Thanksgiving.

While larger fresh turkeys should be in good supply, the under-10-pounders will be scarce.

And the chicken lovers are going to be out of luck.

According to local dealers there will be virtually no roast-chickens on the market.

Smaller birds are no longer an economical proposition, cording to the grocers.

The family of three—unless they want to eat turkey all week—will just have to make do with the frozen variety.

Prices should be around normal at 50 to 55 cents a pound.

Turkey sales at Thanksgiving are 25 to 30 per cent of Christmas sales.

The long weekend runs Oct. 9 to 11.

Car Check Nails 565 Offenders

Road Block Just First Of a Series

Police road blocks will be set up in Victoria at least once a month between now and Christmas.

Said Police Chief John Gregory today: "We're now building up to the high accident rate season."

"We want to make people more aware of their responsibilities as drivers."

To do this, spot checks will be held periodically at various points around the city.

The checks will include full licence and vehicle inspection.

MOST WARNED

The first such road block resulted in 549 warning tickets being issued.

These were for minor lighting, braking and steering defects.

At the same time, one man was arrested for impaired driving and summonses were issued to two minors in possession of liquor; nine no emergency brakes; one no licence; one licence violation and two minors without insurance.

In all, eight officers and nine auxiliaries manned three road blocks.

During the evening they changed position once.

Between 6 p.m. and 1 a.m. 1,289 vehicles were examined.

POOR LIGHTING

Highest number of warning tickets were issued to drivers whose cars had insufficient licence plate illumination.

The blocks will mean plenty of extra business for local repair outfits.

Drivers issued with warning tickets have to return to the police station with the fault rectified within 48 hours.

If they fail to do so, summonses are issued.

Said Chief Gregory: "This is more of an educational policy."

TWICE-A-MONTH

"In many cases the drivers aren't even aware anything is wrong with their vehicles."

He said the road blocks could be held twice-a-month if manpower is available.

Said licensing superintendent, Ray Hadfield: "This sort of thing creates a better climate for safe driving."

"It's amazing the number of people who flaunt the law every day. Road blocks soon deter them."

Alumni Gives Scholarships To 5 Students

Five university entrance scholarships of $250 each have been awarded by the University of Victoria Alumni Association.

Winners of the first scholarships announced today are Douglas K. Pearce, 891 Fullerton Avenue; Judith V. Cameron, 2885 Foul Bay Road; Barrie D. Turnham, 1151 McLure Street; Lorna Mary Stirling, 4968 Cordova Bay Road; and Susan Laubenstein, 1270 Denman Street.

The scholarships are available to students in each of the municipalities in Greater Victoria and Saanich and Sooke school districts who have written a full set of Grade 12 examinations and are planning to attend the University of Victoria.

The money to provide these scholarships is raised wholly from contributions to the annual alumni donations program.

New Support In Lagoon Controversy

Capital Region branch of Community Planning Association has joined in the fight to keep Witty's Lagoon open to the public.

The association has written to Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan urging his department to consider buying the property.

Their support follows presentation of a brief by Metchosis Recreation Committee to the minister Wednesday.

The problem revolves round foreshore property owned by the Witty family and presently up for sale.

Residents are worried that if the land is sold privately there will be no public access to the beach.

Net Fishing Halted For Spawning Run

The Fraser River and Strait of Georgia between Nanaimo and Victoria were closed today by the fisheries department to net salmon fishing.

The closure will last for an indefinite period to allow late runs of pink salmon to reach the spawning grounds.

Ask The Times

Q. What does the word "golden" signify in the potato disease? G.B.

A. It is the color of the cysts which contain the nematode eggs.

The cysts appear on the plant roots and later hatch larvae which grow into eel-shaped organisms that work into the roots of potato and tomato crops, feeding off juices in the tissues.

Q. What name did Captain George Vancouver give to the island we now call Vancouver Island? D.P.

A. He called it "Island of Quadra and Vancouver."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Surprises Galore Found in This Store

By Penny Saver

One of my recent shopping trips downtown led me into a small novelty shop, where I received the surprise of my life shortly after entering.

"How about a mustard jar for the kitchen?" said the gentleman behind the counter, producing a familiar-looking yellow plastic bottle.

He gave a squeeze, and I gave a shriek.

A thin stream of mustard came shooting out—mustard which turned out to be only a piece of yellow string.

The mustard bottle, selling for 95 cents, was only the first of a series of tricks and surprises found in the store.

I put my hand down on the counter, and brought it back with a scream. A tiny bright-eyed snake (rubber, of course) was placidly eyeing me from his box. He lay among a whole menagerie of other rubber snakes, ranging from the tiniest which is 25 cents, to the $2.95 size which resembles a small box constrictor.

I won't even suggest what you would do with these imitation reptiles—the possibilities are unlimited!

A huge pink eraser, six inches long with the words "I never make big mistakes" printed on it, sell for 95 cents. A gift like that might be a gentle hint to some of the over-confident workers around the office. I could use it myself!

And to fool friends with a sweet tooth, there is a box of six little novelty fruits, which sells for 59 cents. They're actually erasers, too, but they could be camouflaged easily in a box of real sweets, to give someone a surprise.

A 15-inch can opener (if really works) is an amusing present for a housewife. And a cigarette holder, billed as "the longest in town," reaches to 25 inches and sells for $2.99.

"You must have a lot of youngsters as customers," I suggested as I was leaving.

"Oh, yes," my friend replied, "but it's mostly big children that come in here."

Have any "big children" in the family? For where to shop, call Penny at 382-3131.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

DEAR ABBY . . .

Guilty Conscience!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm a sailor aboard a navy ship. I left my fiancée back in Canada and we plan to get married as soon as I hit home port in Halifax. Since our ship left I did my best to be true to my girl. However, after 40 days at sea we got leave in Japan. I went on the town, had a couple of beers and "sinned" a little. (A whole lot, I think, would be more truthful.)

I didn't think much of it until the guys I work with told me that I talk in my sleep, and very plainly! (Like I just come right out in plain language and tell everything.) Now I didn't intend telling my fiancée, either before or after we marry, about this little episode in Japan, but what do I do if I admit something in my sleep and my wife hears me?

DEAR SAILOR: Don't build a snow fence until the snow hits. And if it does, don't give out with a snow job.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for two years. This is his first marriage and my second. I have a 12-year-old son who lives with his father out of the province. My present husband knew I had been married before, and he even met my son before we were engaged. He seemed to like the boy very much in the beginning, but now I can't even keep his picture in the house. I am expecting a baby next month and my husband keeps telling me that all my interests should revolve around OUR baby, and no other children. (Meaning my son.) Na-

MONTREAL, September 30th — There's no need to let your work suffer because of rheumatic, arthritic or neuritic pain. This letter tells you why—Mr. Francis Smith of Vancouver writes, "I have suffered a great deal from lumbago. I am a carpenter and the pain made it hard for me to bend or stoop. I have tried everything and have found that nothing compares with Templeton's TRC's for quick and satisfactory relief. Do try TEMPLETON'S TRC's if you suffer in this way. And for even faster, DOUBLE ACTION relief, apply Templeton's FLAME-cream Liniment (in the handy, roll-on applicator bottle) externally, when you take TRC's internally."

"JEEPERS CREEPERS — Bargain Sleepers" — that's how CN advertises low-priced "Dormette" accommodations, available on its crack Super Continental, Panorama, Ocean Limited and Scotian. It certainly is fun to sleep the miles away in a "Dormette" — especially, because these cosy upper and lower berths are less costly than other types of sleepers and another big CN plus is included — delicious complimentary meals in the dinette, cafeteria or coffee-shop car. A "Dormette" trip is the most economical way to travel these days either on your own or with the family. (And the family can get extra savings just by sharing sleeping accommodations.) The "Dormette" — as they say in show biz — is the "sleeper" of the year!

Looking for BARGAIN-PRICE DIAMONDS?

People are often lured by "bargain prices" for diamonds. But the amount you pay for a diamond is in no way a measurement of the value you are actually getting.

If you don't know diamonds, how are you to know if you are getting a fine diamond at a low price, or just a "cheap" diamond at a cheap price.

Your only protection lies in your selection of a jeweller whose integrity and knowledge you can trust . . . a jeweller like BIRKS, Canada's largest jewellers, diamond specialists for four generations. Birks are active members of The American Gem Society. As Registered Jewellers, we can offer our knowledge — our experience — and skill as your assurance of quality.

Old Styles Return . . .

. . . Grecian Hairdos 'In'

SWITCH BACK THE CLOCK

New "twists" on old styles was the theme Wednesday evening when Victoria women saw familiar old fashions in shoes and hairdos return—with some very modern variations.

The show, presented by the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, featured shoe styles by H. G. Munday and Sons and hairstyles by George Molnar of the Charming Lady Salon.

Model after model walked down the runway in footwear mainly designed for comfort with the shorter, slightly rounded toe and lower, thicker heels.

"The high-or 'spike' heel is on the way out," noted commentator, Times' fashion editor Nona Damaske as the models pirouetted in shoes which ranged mainly from those with a slender illusion heel to the walking shoe with the stubby "stacked" wedges.

"Heels," she continued, "are also being set much farther back, extending practically straight down from the back of the shoe."

Working women "oohed and ah'd" about the higher vamp and the wide strapped look—designed for all-day comfort at work and play. Many featured the strapped "T" front, with a wide strap across the top of the foot with a slim tie attaching the buckled band to a lowered vamp.

Those who prefer the higher heel were not forgotten—especially for evening wear—as one model showed a slipper of gold lame, slenderly strapped about the heel to a low vamp showing just a tiny glimpse of toe.

The banded look of the 40s returned in a multi-strapped evening shoe of black patent or suede, with sling heel starting the "bare" look, to end right at the open toe.

Casual comfort for co-eds was illustrated with short, thick heels—often featuring a sling heel—and occasionally showing the top of the foot. Boots, below and above ankle, in sueded and soft calf were also seen.

The familiar French roll has returned in hair styles, with a variation straight from Greece. George Molnar featured several of his models in hairstyles with soft swirls of curls caught at the back and the top of the head in the manner of Grecian statues.

He also illustrated the beauty of short hair, just trimming the top of the neckline in back but long on the top to give height. To give the illusion of long hair—for a special occasion—he added a hairpiece, tinted the hair color of the model, and arranged her own hair to make it impossible to see the addition. On stage, he also combed a complete hairstyle, starting from freshly curled, unbrushed hair.

Mrs. B. Noll was in charge of the affair which realized a sum of $153. Entertainment was provided by soloist Mrs. H. Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. J. Bulmer.

Modelling shoes were Mrs. L. Ralph, Mrs. J. Kennedy, Mrs. B. Adair, Mrs. M. Noble, Mrs. Jackie Chalmers, Mrs. M. Allum, Mrs. Juanita Garden, Mrs. L. McConnell, the Misses Sharon Ball, Carol Corke and Pam Mezger. Hairstyles were shown by the Misses Cathy Patton, Sharon Lord, Carmen Sabo and Mrs. J. Bunch.

JAPANESE ROYALTY VISITING CANADA

TORONTO (UPI)—Japan's Prince Mikasa, his wife and his 21-year-old daughter, Princess Yasaka, arrived here Wednesday from Montreal to begin a two-day sightseeing tour.

The prince and his family, who spent some time in the United States before flying north to Canada, will go to Ottawa and Vancouver following their Toronto visit.

The highlight of their stay was a trip to Niagara Falls this afternoon. The prince visited the new observation tower at the falls and lunched at the General Brock Sheraton Hotel.

Tonight, the royal visitor is guest of honor at a reception given by the Japanese Canadians at the Japanese Canadian Cultural Centre.

Tomorrow night, the prince will attend a private dinner at the residence of the consul-general of Japan.

Also included on his itinerary are visits to the University of Toronto campus and the Royal Ontario Museum.

Princess Mikasa and Princess Yasaka will make a tour of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Professor Speaks Out On Retarded

SASKATOON (CP)—A Yale University professor recently scorned "experimenters" who view mentally retarded children as a "sort of sub-human species."

Edward Zigler, associate professor of psychology at Yale, made the statement in an address to the National Conference on Mental Retardation.

If the "experimenters" would look on retarded children as human beings "coming to grips with the world," a lot of the "nonsense" now being written in some contemporary journals would be shown up for what it is, Prof. Zigler said.

Experiments with retarded children from institutions seemed to indicate they had a more rigid learning pattern than the average child, Prof. Zigler said. However, further experiments, which took into account the "social deprivation" of the institutionalized children, led to a far different conclusion.

Experiments with the mentally retarded should be viewed from the view of the subjects, "rather than the egocentric view of the experimenter," Prof. Zigler said.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The ideal food intake for different members of a family often varies so greatly that it may seem difficult to plan meals to meet all the varying needs. Take the case of Mrs. Blank. She is 30 pounds overweight and is very anxious to reduce, while her husband is extremely underweight and should gain. She is understandably discouraged, but she won't be if she becomes a little more familiar with the calorie content of foods and learns a few tricks. Only a few changes in the preparation of a meal can change the situation drastically. Take a look at the following menus and the following analysis:

HERS

One cup clear soup, 50 calories; one slice roast beef, 100 calories; one baked potato, 100 calories; one pat of butter, 50 calories; one raw carrot, 20 calories; string beans, 40 calories; tossed green salad (diet dressing), 25 calories; skim milk, 80 calories; half cantaloupe, 50 calories. Total for her—465 calories.

HIS

Same soup with cream added, 200 calories; two slices with gravy, 400 calories; stuffed potato (with cream, butter and cheese on top), 200 calories; one raw carrot, 20 calories; string beans, 40 calories; same salad with Roquefort dressing, 150 calories; whole milk, 160 calories; half cantaloupe with ice cream, 180 calories. Total for him—1,350 calories.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Kitley, 2171 Wenman Drive, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their youngest daughter, Lynette Ruth, to Mr. John Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mayer of Delhi, Ont. The wedding will take place on Friday, October 8, at 7:30 p.m. in St. Dunstan's Anglican Church, Gordon Head, with Archdeacon E. Hendy officiating. (Meyers Studio.)

Interior Trip

Mr. Vince J. Madden left recently for a week-long hunting trip to the Interior with Mr. Jack Beban of Nanaimo. The two travelled in Mr. Beban's plane to the Nimpo and Chilcotin Lake district, where they will hunt ducks. Mr. Madden will return to his Rockland Avenue home later this week.

To Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Akerman of Fulford Harbor, Salt Spring Island, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Roberta Jean, to Const. Henry Maxime Allard, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Ocean Falls, B.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allard of Duncan. But when I stretched it on, "Little Nothing" was suddenly made-to-measure. Not a wrinkle or sag. Just fit, fit, fit, with no let-down. (And me, the original baggy-stocking girl.) Soft matte finish. And sheer like crazy. Now I have a complete "Little Nothing" wardrobe. Plainstitch. Mesh. And a wicked nude heel. (The baggy-stocking girl is gone for good.)

TODAY'S RECIPE

PEACH AND NUT JAM

Four cups prepared fruit (about 3 lbs. (2 qts.) ripe peaches), 1/2 cup chopped almonds or pecans, 1/4 cup lemon juice (2 lemons), 7 cups sugar, 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin, 1/4 teaspoon almond extract.

*If pecans are used omit almond extract.

First, prepare the fruit. Peel and pit about 3 pounds (2 quarts) fully ripe peaches. Grind or chop very fine. Measure 4 cups into a very large saucepan. Chop the almonds and measure 1/2 cup almonds into the saucepan with the peaches. Squeeze the juice from 2 medium size lemons. Measure 1/4 cup juice into saucepan with peaches.

Then, make the jam. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin and almond extract. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover jam at once with 1/4 inch hot paraffin.

Note: This jam may set slowly—allow about 2 weeks.

Yield: about 11 medium glasses (5 1/2 lbs. jam).

Receives Names

Elaine Gray were the names received by the three-and-a-half-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Perry when she was baptized, Sunday afternoon, in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church. Rev. J. A. Roberts officiated. The infant wore an heirloom christening gown which had been worn by her mother and her maternal grandmother. Godparents are the baby's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perry, and another aunt, Mrs. John Perry. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rigby are maternal grandparents and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Rigby are maternal great-grandparents. A tea for the immediate family followed in Holyrood House.

Edmonton Honeymoon Follows Vows In St. Paul's

MARLENE JOAN HOLMAN MARRIED

Arrangements of gladioli, carnations and chrysanthemums in white tones were at the altar of St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, when Rev. J. A. Roberts heard marriage vows exchanged between Marlene Joan Holman and Lawrence William Cross.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holman, 644 Belton Avenue, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Cross of Kelowna. Mr. Holman gave his daughter in marriage.

A train of unpressed pleats swept back from a bow at the back lace-trimmed waistline of the nylon-over-taffeta gown worn by the bride. The bodice was styled with a scoop neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. The three-tier veil of illusion net misted to her shoulders from a white floral headpiece and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Matrons of honor, Mrs. A. Knight and Mrs. J. Galbraith, wore matching gowns of pink rayon chiffon over taffeta, accented with toning taffeta head bows, edged with net, and bouquets of white carnations starred with pink.

Walter Cross was best man for his brother. Ushering guests were Kirk Davis and Gerry McGovern.

Spot Delinquents

TORONTO (CP)—The future juvenile delinquent may be spotted by doctors, says Dr. M. Armacost Cox, a Toronto pediatrician. He says it has been found that hyperactivity in infancy is about the only common denominator.

Two doves holding wedding rings topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table at the reception following in the Olde England Inn.

Doug Hobbs proposed the toast to the bride.

complemented with black patent and pink accessories and pink carnations on corsage was the choice of the bride for travelling on honeymoon to Edmonton and Kelowna.

The couple is now making their home at 1724 Newton Street.

NARROW MAJORITY

Vancouver Gets Nod For Five-Year Plan

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city's five-year plan was approved in a narrow majority vote by property owners here Wednesday.

A separate vote, $10,000,000 to rebuild the Georgia Street viaduct, also got the nod. About 45 per cent of the peace to the United Nations Monday.

Detectives and FBI agents are digging through the files of known religious psychopaths and troublemakers. Particular attention was given to checking several letters a police spokesman said have expressed violent intentions "in a manner that arouses concern."

Police did not disclose the contents of the letters.

Other detectives called Wednesday on owners of shops selling religious vestments to report any suspicious purchasers.

In another security precaution, the Port of New York Authority, which operates Kennedy Airport, announced that the public would not be permitted to see the Pope's arrival and departure at the airport. Even airport employees were included in the ban.

The authority also announced that all flight activity at Kennedy will be suspended Monday between 9:45 a.m. and 10 a.m. The Pope's plane is to land at 9:30 and welcoming ceremonies are scheduled to start at 9:45.

The authority said it wanted to assure that the ceremonies would not be disturbed by the noise of planes landing and taking off. At that time of day, planes normally arrive and depart at the rate of about one a minute.

The Pope will arrive on a regular flight of the Italian airline Alitalia, holding a first-class ticket costing $890.60.

RUSSIAN TALK SPRUNG WILSON

BLACKPOOL, England (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson told television viewers Tuesday night he once was arrested by Soviet police "for taking photographs where I shouldn't."

"I talked myself out of the police station with the little Russian I have," he said. He did not say when the incident took place.

Wilson was being questioned about his quotation of a proverb in Russian during a speech at the Labor party's annual conference earlier in the day.

Woman Jailed For 14 Days

A city woman, caught twice in two months for driving while her licence was suspended, was jailed for 14 days in city magistrate's court Tuesday.

Elaine Stentafor, 810 Courtney, was also fined $195 after she pleaded guilty to two charges of speeding and the offences of driving while disqualified.

She was stopped Aug. 4 when paced at 42 mph on Douglas Street, and a police investigation revealed her licence was under suspension.

Her second offence, Sept. 15 on Quadra Street, when she was paced at 43 mph in a 30 zone, came after she received summonses for the previous infraction.

"It is hard to imagine anyone being more contemptuous of the law than you are," Magistrate William Ostler told her.

NEXT YEAR

Satchmo Armstrong May Hang Up Horn

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Louis Armstrong, who has been blowing the sweetest trumpet this side of Gabriel for 52 years, may retire next year.

"I got 12 weeks off next January," says old Satch, "and I may just dig this retirement jazz for size."

Of course, an extremely busy schedule at the moment may make retirement look delightful.

He was interviewed between rehearsals for a Dean Martin television show after having played the night before at Disneyland until 2 a.m.

Louis was about to take off on 42 one-nighters that will take him up the Pacific coast to Alaska and then down into Texas and Louisiana.

"Man," says Louis, "there just ain't no days off. Just looking at that itinerary makes me tired."

MAY HIT ASIA

There's also a possibility that he will go to South Viet Nam and play for the troops.

"It's up to the state department," he says. "Pops will swing anyplace."

Louis even blew behind the Iron Curtain.

"I had crowds in Budapest like I did in Ghana," beams Satchmo. "Those cats all swing alike."

At age 65 Satch's health is good and so is his lip—which is never given a rest. He blows a show almost every night and practices every day—a ritual he

BILL SIGNED FOR ARTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Lyndon Johnson turned the White House rose garden into a cultural centre Wednesday to sign a bill that makes the federal government a $21 million-a-year patron of the arts.

Poets, painters, actors and a huge crowd of Congressmen gathered in the rose garden to watch Johnson sign the bill which created a national foundation for the arts and humanities.

EXCHANGE PLAN

Lesage To Probe Rejection

EDMONTON (CP) — Quebec Premier Lesage Wednesday promised to "go deep" into the rejection by Laval University students of a proposal for a western Canada exchange week at the Quebec City campus.

He told a press conference the rejection, perhaps "extremist thinking of a group or maybe some basic misunderstanding" did not reflect the Quebec government policy of encouraging exchanges.

Earlier, he told a breakfast meeting of the French-Canadian Association of Edmonton he will investigate the rejection when he returns to Quebec Oct. 8 after a western Canadian tour.

Mr. Lesage held a private 30-minute meeting with Alberta Premier E. C. Manning. It was his first meeting with a western premier since he kicked off his tour at Saskatoon Sept. 19.

He also said he has been bothered by indifference some persons in his western audiences have shown to his viewpoints on biculturalism.

'Scrap' Document On Birth Control

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council was asked today to scrap its entire text on birth control and let Pope Paul make a final pronouncement on the subject.

The request came from John Cardinal Heenan of Britain, who also asked that the Roman Catholic Church urge childless couples to adopt orphans and illegitimate children.

Cardinal Heenan was among 14 prelates who spoke in the council on the marriage and birth control section.

The document speaks of couples having the right to determine the number of children they should have, but there is no mention of contraception.

Clearly alluding to contraception, Cardinal Heenan told the prelates in St. Peter's Basilica:

"Would it not be better to say nothing at all about marriage in this document rather than discuss it while leaving the really big problem without mention?"

"If we act in this way, there is surely some danger that the faithful will feel they are being defrauded."

He said non-Catholic critics might even "sneer at us and say 'the Catholic Church claims to be infallible in teaching faith and morals, yet it cannot make up its mind about this question.'"

"It would be better to leave out this whole chapter on marriage until the Pope, having received the guidance he has sought from scientists and theologians, is ready to make a proclamation on this subject."

Another speaker, Angelo Cardinal Rossi of Sao Paulo, Brazil, said the final word on birth control properly belongs to the Pope, but the bishops "must have some word before we leave and go back to our people."

Conservatives complain the document is vague and leaves the way open for the use of contraceptives.

Possibly it does—and possibly on purpose.

As general and vague as the document might seem to be, a striking fact is that it does not specifically bar the use of contraceptives and suggests marriage involves other basic values than the perpetuation of the human race.

GOVERNORSHIP of Maine is the goal set today by actor Gary Merrill, 48. He announced he will run next year for the state house of representatives.

Positive View Urged By Victoria Bishop

VATICAN CITY (CP) — A Vatican ecumenical council document, dealing with marriage only partially succeeds in satisfying expectations of married couples, a Canadian bishop told the council today.

Bishop Remi de Roo of Victoria said couples he had consulted wanted the council to recognize "their proper gifts and the special characteristics of their vocation."

"They want encouragement and help to move with enthusiasm towards deeper conjugal life in this age of church renewal," Bishop de Roo said.

"To this end, should we not courageously set aside too great a preoccupation with the pitfalls of married love and its ever-possible abuses?"

"Should we not insist rather on the positive vision of the riches of human love and the heights it can reach through grace?"

MUST BE FINISHED

Classical doctrine which states marriage is intended for procreation has to be perfected and completed, he said.

"We ignore reality if we consider merely one or the other gesture of conjugal love apart from the whole of family life."

Work or Politics?

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Fred Atkinson, the off and on candidate for the New Democratic Party in the Cariboo, was asked Wednesday by two members of the Beverage Dispensers and Culinary Workers Union to either renounce his candidacy or his position as union business agent.

Mr. Atkinson can't handle both jobs, said Gordon Stafford and Bill Reese, members of the union negotiating committee.

They said the union's contract with hotels expires Oct. 31 and Mr. Atkinson will be involved in subsequent negotiations.

"Either he has got to be a business agent or a candidate. He can't be both," said Mr. Stafford.

Gov't Approves Use of Emblems By Business

OTTAWA — State Secretary Lamontagne today pulled out the stops to allow Canadian businesses a free hand to reproduce the country's symbols and emblems for 1967.

In an order-in-council, effective immediately, the government has approved the use of reproductions of the national flag, the arms of Canada and pictures of uniformed members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to commemorate Canada's 100th birthday.

These may be used on centennial souvenirs or articles, temporary decorations of premises and in displays in newspapers and periodicals.

In the past such reproduction by businesses of these national symbols has been prohibited under the trade marks act without formal government consent and approval by the state secretary.

GOOD TASTE

Under the new order-in-council the following conditions must apply to all articles bearing the symbols:

• They must conform to good taste and be free from advertisement other than the name of the firm.

• They must be free from any implication that the firm, its products or its services have received government approval or authority.

• They must not be used as a premium or selling aid.

• In the case of souvenirs or other commemorative articles, they must not be sold or advertised or offered for sale after June 30, 1968. Temporary decorations and displays must be removed or discontinued not later than that same date.

Also no application can be made for registration of any design or mark involving any of these emblems or symbols.

NORMAL PURPOSES

The specified symbols may be shown for normal news purposes in newspapers, magazines, movie theatres and television.

But they must not be used for advertising.

The maple leaf itself may be used on designs or trade marks conforming to standards of good taste.

Any applicant wishing registration of any such design must disclaim any right to the exclusive use of the maple leaf and owners of maple leaf trademarks can make no attempt to prevent anyone else from using it.

Mexican Art Featured At Gallery

A display of Mexican figurines is on view at Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

They originated in western Mexico, the Central Plateau and Vera Cruz and are divided into two groups—symbols relating to religious beliefs and rituals and portraits of events in everyday life. Average height is six inches.

Dark red pottery of elaborate styling comes from Colima on the Pacific Coast of Mexico and there are figurines in native clay from Jalisco.

The exhibition closes on Sunday.

Starting Tuesday, there will be a display of British and French art known as the Elizabeth Holz Fisher collection.

MASTERS DISPLAYED

Among the portraits are studies by Gainsborough, Sir Joshua Reynolds and Raeburn. The canvases include works by Corot and Millet, whose Angelus and The Gleaners are among the world's most popular paintings.

The Fisher collection consists mainly of 18th century British portraits and landscapes by the 19th century French Barbizon school. It was bequeathed to the University of California.

Concurrent with this exhibition will be a display of etchings and lithographs added to the gallery's permanent collection. Among these are prints by some of the supreme masters of European print-making, including Durer, Rembrandt, Goya and Picasso.

The two exhibitions will be formally opened at a reception in the gallery at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

NATIONALISTS GET LOAN FROM CANADA

OTTAWA (CP)—A $5,000,000 loan to Nationalist China to cover sale of Canadian equipment for a lumber and furniture manufacturing development was announced Wednesday by the trade department.

The sale of the equipment by Canadian Transoceanic Technical Services Ltd. of Vancouver was the first to Nationalist China under Canada's long-term export financing program. The loan, which calls for repayment in eight years with a 30-month grace period, carries a six-per-cent annual interest rate.

WATCHED TV, KILLS BROTHER

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (Reuters)—The 10-year-old son of a policeman testified at an inquest Thursday that he shot his four-year-old brother with his father's pistol after learning how from television. The coroner ruled that the boy was not criminally responsible.

'No Place For Birchers,' GOP Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders said today there is no place in the party for the John Birch Society.

Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said, "they are not a part of the Republican party, they never have been and they never will be."

Representative Gerald R. Ford of Michigan was just as emphatic. He described the militantly conservative society as a monolithic organization that takes orders from the top and said, "There is no place for it in the Republican party."

They commented on a statement of Senator Thurston B. Morton (Rep. Ky.) that the society is infiltrating the Republican party.

Morton is chairman of the Senate Republican campaign committee. He said he did not know the extent of Birch infiltration.

"My mission is accomplished by just pointing out the danger which our party faces," he said.

He added that the problem posed by the Birch society now parallels that faced by the Democratic party 25 years ago when Communists tried to gain influence.

Not Ashamed Of Jail Term, Says Candidate

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Joe Unwin, 72, one-time whip in the government of Premier Abernethy of Alberta, was nominated Tuesday night to contest New Westminster constituency for the Social Credit party.

Mr. Unwin offered at a nominating meeting in neighboring Surrey to withdraw his candidacy because he once served a three-month sentence for libel.

The offer was refused. He said in 1935 he and a Social Credit economist named Powell had printed pamphlets naming certain men as "bankers' toadies."

The combined opposition parties had the two arrested on libel charges and both were jailed.

He said he was not ashamed of his sentence but felt that the press would play up the fact.

PYTHON CRUSHES BOY

RANGOON (Reuters)—An eight-year-old boy who was swallowed by a 15-foot python was found crushed to death after villagers in Lower Burma killed the snake and recovered the boy's body, it was reported here Wednesday.

Minister's Chances Improved

TORONTO (CP)—Two teen-aged witnesses for the Crown at a United Church minister's trial last year on charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency in Chatham, Ont., have changed their stories, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart of Ontario said Tuesday night.

"I wouldn't say they've retracted what they said at the trial, but they've modified it," Mr. Wishart said.

Rev. Russell Horsburgh, who later resigned from the ministry, was sentenced to one year on conviction of five of eight charges.

Several members of a church youth group testified at the trial they had sexual intercourse in Park Street Church with Mr. Horsburgh's knowledge and encouragement.

Mr. Horsburgh, appealing the conviction, is free on $2,500 bail.

"I don't know yet whether the new evidence will mean the opening of a new trial or whether it'll be presented when the Appeal Court considers the case," the attorney-general said.

10 Bullets, 10 Elephants On Best Day

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Buhmiller, who has killed 165 elephants in the last eight years is on his way back to Africa to take care of some more.

Until his retirement, Mr. Buhmiller, 73, was better known as a gun barrel manufacturer in Kalispell, Mont.

But on a trip to the Lake Manyara area of Tanganyika, he met a number of elephant-hating settlers who were keeping elephants, rhinos, buffaloes and giraffes away from their crops by setting up electric fences.

The elephants found new ways of getting to the crops "so the farmers called me and my Magnum and I've been going there ever since," Mr. Buhmiller says.

Interviewed when he passed through Vancouver on his way to the Dark Continent, Mr. Buhmiller said on his best day he killed 10 elephants with 10 bullets.

ABANDONED BOY GOING TO SPECIAL SCHOOL

'This Sure Is a Load Off My Mind ...'

MIAMI (AP)—Ricky Thorne, 13, a mute, mentally retarded boy who was abandoned 1,350 miles from home, may never live with his parents again.

"I know I'll miss him," said his mother, Mrs. Victor Thorne, 44, of Troy, Mich., who admitted leaving Ricky at the Miami airport last week with the labels stripped from his clothes and only three cents and a sandwich in his pockets.

Juvenile Judge Ben Sheppard committed Ricky to a special school for treatment Wednesday and ordered his parents stay away for a year unless psychiatrists advise otherwise.

Sheppard allowed the parents to see Ricky before they return to Michigan.

"Both parents had tears in their eyes when they saw Ricky," said a juvenile court officer. "Ricky was real glad to see them, too."

MADE FIRST SOUND

"When I asked him if he wanted to see his mother, he nodded again and said, 'Uh-huh.' It was the first time I had heard him say a word."

Judge Sheppard said: "There's not much hope Ricky will be returned to his parents. He'll probably remain in this school for two or three years before other arrangements are made for him."

Mrs. Thorne beamed when the judge announced Ricky would be put in a Miami school.

"This sure is a load off my mind," she said after the hearing.

The veteran actor was shaking during the sentencing and he said later that he had clutched a 105-year-old rosary during the proceeding.

After leaving the courtroom, Raft publicly thanked his many show business friends, including Red Skelton, Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante, Bing Crosby, and Lucille Ball who wrote letters to Judge Hall extolling Raft's character.

The count to which he pleaded guilty said he falsely claimed a $25,000 loss in a Cuban gambling Casino, but Raft said it was a "bookkeeping error."

CAPRI Gets Grant

OTTAWA (CP)—A $6,000 United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization grant has been awarded to the Canadian Peace Research Institute toward the cost of preparing and publishing their "peace research abstracts," the Canadian national commission for UNESCO announced Wednesday. The abstracts are brief summaries of research done on peace and war that are prepared, catalogued and published so that specialists may be quickly aware of work done and conclusions reached elsewhere.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

NEW YORK—There may be some legal drama unfolding before Carol Channing's TV special hits the screens this winter. David Merrick is toying with the notion of suing the star if she attempts to sing "Hello, Dolly!" on television in the way she did it as the original star of the Broadway musical—his reasoning being that he still has the hit running on Broadway with Ginger Rogers as Dolly, and he's not about to permit the biggest number in the show displayed to the nation free of charge. It will become a question of law—or at least the law of the composer's union—whether he can succeed in banning the song. It is possible for the writers of a score to restrict its performance outside the show (Rodgers and Hammerstein did it with "Oklahoma!", for example) but it would seem that the restriction would have to apply to all singers, not just Carol, and goodness knows, "Hello Dolly!" has been done all over the place by all kinds of performers, including yowlers on sound tracks for political campaigners. It seems a little late for David to restrict the tune—and of course, he would have to have the co-operation of the composers. . . . Alan King, Broadway-bound in "The Impossible Years," got a marvelous personal review from the critics of the Hartford Times, who found flaws in the play but predicted it would be a hit. But, co! wait until that reviewer gets the letters from psychiatrists and pants-pressers! He wrote that although Alan was cast as a psychiatrist he was like no psychiatrist the critic ever knew, but far more like a typical pants-presser. . . . Chicago Mayor Richard Daley could have a Cabinet post, according to White House insiders, but he has let it be known that he prefers to keep his spot as one of the most influential politicians in the country.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

1 Was a Failure In University

By JACK HUTTON

Say, I want you to meet a fellow who failed college. Who? You're looking at him dear reader—your faithful correspondent in this little corner. Oh, I didn't fail to graduate if that's what you're thinking. And I passed every course they put in front of me with ease. Some were harder than others, but none were impossible.

That, however, isn't the point of it all. When it came to grasping what it was all about at university I missed every loop on the merry-go-round—by at least a foot every time. It came to me later, too late.

And I only hope that by telling you what happened to me some of you may see the pitfalls ahead of you. They aren't easy to see until you're climbing out of them.

So here's a fellow who just made it into university, you're thinking? Quite the contrary. I could almost count hours of homework during high school on the fingers of my two hands. And in Grades 7 and 8 I was given a certificate as top student.

Sneaky Suspicion

Those two certificates (I've still got them) did it, I'm sure. I had a sneaky suspicion a girl in the me class should have won, but looking at the awards convinced me that I didn't have to work.

Then, just about the same time, someone played a dirty trick on me in the name of progressive education. They measured my IQ (whatever in the wide world that means) and told me what it was.

I saw the little chart with Average People in the middle, Below Average People down lower, and Above Average People on top of the heap. Suddenly the world looked a lot easier.

Why sweat? Your IQ is higher than the fellow across the aisle. Maybe he'll get a higher mark on the next test but you can easily catch up the next time. Hah!

The philosophy worked for me all through high school. When subjects or teachers interested me I did better, but it was easier to get average or a little better than average marks.

And it was the same story when university was one year away. You knew the minimum standards required, so you found it easy to get a comfortably higher average. Just in case they were being fussy that spring.

No one has ever looked forward to university like I did. Once when sitting in a boat with a friend, we both agreed that the sun's trail across the water was our pathway to university.

What a Shock

But what a shock to finally arrive. I'd never counted on the fact that not everyone had the same philosophy. Why, I reasoned that first fall, should not the same amount of effort get me by? After all, it gave me time to enjoy other things than studies.

Maybe other fellows had to sit up until midnight reviewing their notes. Not me. I could always manage to emerge in the top third. For some reason I decided to concentrate on playing the piano instead of getting organized.

Those first exams at Christmas! I'll never forget them. All around me I saw Average People or even Below Average People getting better marks. What was the difference? They'd been working for years and it paid off.

Same Stream

By the time I'd caught my breath I was in the same stream as the second-raters—the pass course which gives you a degree after three years but never the depth that you get in honors course. I kept on reading for years trying to catch up.

This couldn't happen to you? Only one out of 20 Grade 9 students reading this column will graduate from high school. Two out of every university student. If they're freshmen, will fail their exams next spring.

These statistics look bad enough. But add to them a shadowy percentage—let's say 25 per cent as a bottom figure—of students who remain physically present but aren't getting what they should out of the process. Color me in this category. Are you?

Those who've seen Mimi Hines' run-through in the title role of "Funny Girl" think she'll take New York by storm when she replaces Barbra Streisand. They're not comparing her with Barbra—it's just that she gives the Fanny Brice character a fascinating interpretation all her own. The big question that remains is what will happen to the boxoffice at "Funny Girl" once Barbra leaves the cast, because it was her great triumph and she is indelibly identified with the show. Even if Mimi is great, will the customers clamor to get tickets? It's unfair, but probably true, that they won't. . . . Charles Aznavour, the darling of the hip set over here, has hired a press agent (or someone has hired one for him) who is releasing alleged quotes from the singer attacking everything from American women to American bathing habits. We have no statistics on the relative charms of U.S. versus French ladies, but for a Frenchman to criticize American cleanliness is a big laugh—and none of the attempts of controversy will help him.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to David Damon, age 9, of Atlanta, Ga., for his question:

How long does it take a tadpole to become a frog?

David Damon has a captive tadpole named Herbie. He reports that Herbie has been a tadpole for four long months. Other tadpoles have grown into frogs, but not Herbie. Some tadpoles grow up faster than others, and David's little pet may happen to be one of the slowpokes.

There are dozens of different frogs in the world. If you listen to their cheerful croaking after sunset, you can hear their different voices. There are high notes from the little peepers, deep notes from the bullfrogs and many other croaky voices—medium, high and low. All frogs grow up in the same way, but each kind takes its own time about it.

Every frog starts life as a round, dark egg inside a bull of glassy jelly. He hatches into a wriggly, black tadpole and spends his kindergarten days in the water, living the life of a fish. Then he grows legs and loses his tadpole tail. He learns to breathe air and soon leaves the water to live on the land. Most frogs take about two months to change from tadpoles into grown-up frogs.

But the ordinary green frog takes longer. And the throaty old bullfrog takes longer still. When you collect a clump of frog eggs in the spring, they may be the eggs of a bullfrog. If this is so, your little hatchlings will stay tadpoles all through the summer and winter. For bullfrog tadpoles do not turn into frogs until they are about one year old.

Every frog starts life as a round, dark egg inside a bull of glassy jelly.

Hibernates In Winter

Bullfrog eggs look like a batch of almost any other frog eggs. You may find them clumped together around a water weed or floating near the top of a pond or a lazy creek. You may gather them with some of the creek water into a jar and take them home. It is fun to watch them grow and change step by step into four-legged frogs. Then comes the time to take them back home and set them free beside their own swimming pool in the woods.

As a rule, your little pets will be ready for their freedom in two or three months. But if they keep growing and stay tadpoles, chances are they are bullfrogs. They may grow five inches long, and do not expect them to start changing into frogs until next summer.

If left in the wild, the bullfrog tadpole must be ready to face the chilly months of winter. In late fall, he wriggles down in the mud on the floor of his pond. There he goes into the deep, deep sleep of hibernation. He does not eat or move. His breathing and heartbeat almost stop. But when spring warms his pond again, he wakes up and spends a few months growing into a big, deep-voiced bullfrog.

COLD WAR CHILLS

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW — The war in Viet Nam is freezing Soviet-American relations and the Soviet Union will continue to supply military aid to North Viet Nam, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev says.

On the domestic front, he told the Russians that because of poor harvests the Soviet Union may have to buy more wheat from the West.

Reviewing Soviet foreign policy before the party central committee Wednesday, the first secretary also held out an olive branch to China.

Brezhnev said the war in Viet Nam "greatly complicated" Soviet relations with the United States and those relations "show a clearly evident tendency toward freezing."

"Normalization of our relations is incompatible with the armed aggression of American imperialism against a fraternal socialist country—Viet Nam."

"MUST ABANDON POLICY"

"The nature of the further development of our relations with the United States will depend on whether or not the leaders of this country will show enough common sense to abandon the policy of aggressive attacks."

Brezhnev again attacked West German "militarism" and warned that the Warsaw pact nations of Communist Eastern Europe would take steps to strengthen their defenses. He said there are "no possibilities for fruitful development of relations with West Germany" even though trade continues.

Russia's relations with Britain, he said, were "substantially hampered" by the Labor government's support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam and for nuclear weapons for West Germany.

"At the present time the prospects of our relations with France are not bad," he said, due to "the realistic position of the French government" in attempting to improve relations with the Communist camp.

"We must consistently continue to search for the ways of consolidating friendship and co-operation between the Soviet and Chinese peoples, between our parties and countries."

"WILL CONTINUE AID"

Brezhnev said Russia had supplied North Viet Nam with "a considerable amount of weapons and military equipment" and declared that military aid would be continued. And he disclosed that Russia already has bought more than 9,000,000 tons of wheat and flour in the West, much of it from Canada, at an estimated cost of more than $700,000,000.

He indicated that Russia might be dipping into its gold reserves to finance the purchase of more Western wheat.

This year's harvest is expected to be better than 1963's—the worst on record. But experts said it was unlikely to exceed 60,000,000 tons, which would be 14,000,000 tons less than last year's.

DINNER MEETING was held in New York Wednesday night by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, left, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. They met in Rusk's hotel suite to discuss disarmament, the India-Pakistan conflict and U.S.-Russian relations. The meeting was described as friendly and another will be held Friday night. 'Friends, Neighbors' Acquit White Deputy

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—An all-white Lowndes County jury today acquitted special deputy Thomas Coleman of the shotgun slaying of a white civil rights worker from New Hampshire.

The jurors, friends and neighbors of Coleman, deliberated a total of 1 hour and 43 minutes before returning the verdict, another in a long series of failures by prosecutors to gain convictions in deep south civil rights slayings.

Coleman, member of a prominent Lowndes County family, was charged with first degree manslaughter in the Aug. 20 death of Jonathan Daniels, 26, an Episcopal seminarian from Keene, N.H., and assault in the wounding of the Rev. Richard Morrisroe, 26, a Roman Catholic priest from Chicago.

"I'm happy," was Coleman's only comment after the verdict was announced. The executive director of an Episcopal society which sent Daniels into Alabama to do civil rights work called the acquittal a "miscarriage of justice."

"DID WHAT HE HAD TO"

Coleman's defence bore down on the contention that "he did what he had to do" when he shot the two white men in front of a Hayneville store when they came there shortly after being released from a civil rights demonstration. Coleman was in the county jail one block away.

The verdict was read by court clerk Mrs. Kelly Coleman, a cousin by marriage of the defendant, a district engineer for the state highway department and a "citizen" deputy sheriff.

Coleman's wife and numerous other relatives and close friends were in the courtroom when the verdict was handed down.

Coleman's wife grabbed her husband in an embrace. Tears running down her cheeks, she said: "I knew it all the time."

NOT SURPRISED

"I wasn't surprised at all," said Carlton Perdue, who was serving on the prosecution staff as the solicitor of Lowndes County.

"What could you expect in this country?" he added.

The case took an unusual twist when Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers criticized the grand jury for returning the lesser charge, and stepped in to take over the case.

But on the first day of the trial, Circuit Court Judge T. Werth Thagard bluntly ordered the attorney general out of the trial and almost cited Flowers' assistant for contempt. Flowers had maintained he was not prepared to start the trial and that the atmosphere in the county was not conducive to a fair trial for the prosecution.

Flowers took away the prosecution from local authorities on grounds they were party to a "travesty of justice" in trying Coleman only for manslaughter.

Throughout the brief trial the defence contended that Coleman acted in self defence. Three defence witnesses testified Daniels was armed with a knife and Morrisroe with a gun when they approached the small country store. Prosecution witnesses said, however, that both men were unarmed.

Diplomatic Channels

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department said today if Fidel Castro is serious about assisting Cuban refugees reach the United States he should make his proposal through diplomatic channels and it will be given "most careful consideration."

Hydro to Check Spiralling Costs

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority today put the onus on contractors to check spiralling construction costs in the province.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, co-chairman, said the crown agency will refuse to guarantee payment of extra fringe benefits negotiated after new contracts are awarded.

He also said Hydro will meet only 90 per cent of wage increases negotiated during the life of any new contract.

A clause to this effect will be placed in the specifications for each new contract, Dr. Shrum said. The clause will replace one in existing contracts guaranteeing Hydro will meet 100 per cent of escalation of labor costs.

MASTER PACTS DELETED

He said the new policy will not affect master agreements between Hydro and unions involved in projects on the Peace and Columbia rivers.

Troops Block Negro Pupils

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—State troopers today turned away a group of Negro children, some of them first and second graders, who failed for the third consecutive day to board buses bound for all-white schools in neighboring counties.

Standing in a steady rain, a highway patrol captain backed by a line of troopers confronted the Negro children and turned them back peacefully. "You're not going to ride the buses and that's it," warned Capt. Theron Aldridge.

Aldridge also warned about 100 whites present: "Let's get this straight. We're not going to have any trouble. We (the troopers) can handle this and we will and that's it."

It was the third consecutive day of racial tension in this rural northwest Georgia area where a Negro civil rights worker was roughed up Wednesday by angry whites and a Negro teen-ager dragged from his car and assaulted until troopers rescued him.

Ceasefire Crumbling In Kashmir

UN Struggles To Find Peace Solution

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—India and Pakistan today confronted the United Nations with their avowed unwillingness to withdraw their armed forces from the disputed areas of Kashmir.

Blaming each other for violations of the security council-ordered cease-fire, India and Pakistan gave no indication of abiding by the council's demand to withdraw all armed personnel from the battle-torn territory.

Before leaving for Pakistan Wednesday night, Pakistani Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto said his country would not withdraw its armed forces from Kashmir unless the United Nations sent in a peace force to prevent India from moving in.

'PREPOSTEROUS'

India, claiming the disputed area of Kashmir as an "integral part" of India, told the 117-member general assembly Wednesday that the idea of withdrawing troops "is preposterous."

At the same time, Indian delegate Syed Mir Qasim, minister without portfolio of the government of Kashmir, rejected two other proposals presented to the assembly Tuesday by Bhutto—a UN-supervised plebiscite to determine the political future of Kashmir and the question of a peace force for the area.

Qasim said India "will never agree to any foreign troops being inducted into our country—we are entirely opposed to this proposal."

'DISASTROUS'

Dealing with Pakistan's repeated calls for a plebiscite to "let the people decide their own future," Qasim said the application of a plebiscite "to parts of sovereign independent states would be disastrous."

Despite the hostile statements voiced by both sides, Secretary-General Thant was working quietly to build up a UN military observer force for Kashmir.

A spokesman yesterday said Thant had contacted several countries, including East European, to determine whether they would send observers.

N.Y. Strike Costly to Que.

QUEBEC (CP)—Paul Emile Lachance, president of the Council of Quebec Pulp and Paper Producers, says a 12-day strike which has halted publication of six New York daily papers is costing Quebec newspaper producers $1,620,000 a week in sales.

Nearly all Quebec newsprint manufacturers are affected and weekly deliveries have been reduced by about 12,000 tons, he said today.

GRIM BATTLE UNDER WAY NEAR BORDER

KARACHI (Reuters)—Pakistani forces were locked in a grim battle with two battalions of Indian troops in the Rajasthan area near the Sind border, about 120 miles east of Hyderabad city, it was officially announced today.

An official communique broadcast by Radio Pakistan said the Indians launched an attack at 2:30 a.m. today on Sacha, a post Pakistan claimed to have occupied before the ceasefire order Sept. 23.

Reports at 1 p.m. today said the battle still was continuing with the Indians suffering heavy losses.

United Nations observers have been informed, the communique said.

Both Sides Dig In

NEW DELHI (AP)—India and Pakistan were digging in today for what promised to be more bloody skirmishes along the ineffective UN ceasefire line separating their armies.

Diplomats of both nations were publicly adopting uncompromising stands that appeared to leave no prospect of a significant troop withdrawal or long range peace settlement.

The Indian flag was flying on the eastern bank of the Ichhogil Canal and in the Pakistani town of Burki which was captured before the ceasefire.

The Indians also were extending the civil administration to areas they had captured in Pakistani Kashmir. There was no indication whether New Delhi also planned such a move in occupied sections of West Pakistan.

The United Nations, which arranged the ceasefire Sept. 28, still did not have enough observers on the front to do much good and the chief UN officer, Maj.-Gen. Bruce MacDonald, of Edmonton, was reported to have left for the Pakistani city of Lahore in an effort to quiet down the skirmishing.

SEEKS WITHDRAWAL

Gen. MacDonald was said to be proposing that both armies initially withdraw 500 yards from the tense Lahore front, where their forward units now face each other across the 100-foot wide Ichhogil Canal. He is commander of the newly-created United Nations-India-Pakistan Observer Mission (UNIPOM).

The newspaper Indian Express said Gen. MacDonald was asking both armies to disengage physically because their nearness to each other was considered a major reason for frequent ceasefire violations.

Both sides were charging violations along almost the entire length of the long, tense front that stretches from northernmost Kashmir state southwest until it almost reaches the Arabian Sea.

Some of the heaviest fighting was reported in the desert that covers much of India's Rajasthan state and the adjoining Hyderabad area of Southern West Pakistan.

Pakistan claimed it had captured five Indian officers, including a lieutenant-colonel commanding a battalion, in one desert clash.

India, however, said its forces had got the upper hand and were winning in a fight that involved desert rangers and camel units. A defence ministry spokesman said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured.

India says that when full-scale fighting stopped last week, it held 690 square miles of Pakistani territory, and had relinquished 250 square miles of its soil to Pakistan.

Famine Faces Isolated Valley

MUZAFFARABAD, Azad Kashmir (Reuters)—Officials here said Wednesday 50,000 people are facing starvation in an isolated valley because food cannot be taken to them along a narrow mountain road shelled by the Indians.

They said the road to the Meelam (Blue Sapphire) Valley, north of Muzaffarabad, capital of Azad (Pakistan) Kashmir—was heavily damaged by shelling in the last year.

Food carriers with 80-pound bundles on their heads have been sent to the valley, where food is needed to supplement a thin harvest. They have to cross 8,000-foot passes on which the first snows will soon fall.

International Red Cross and United Nations Children's Fund officials are helping to alleviate the plight of 1,000 refugees from Indian Kashmir who have streamed into a camp of stone huts 18 miles from Muzaffarabad.

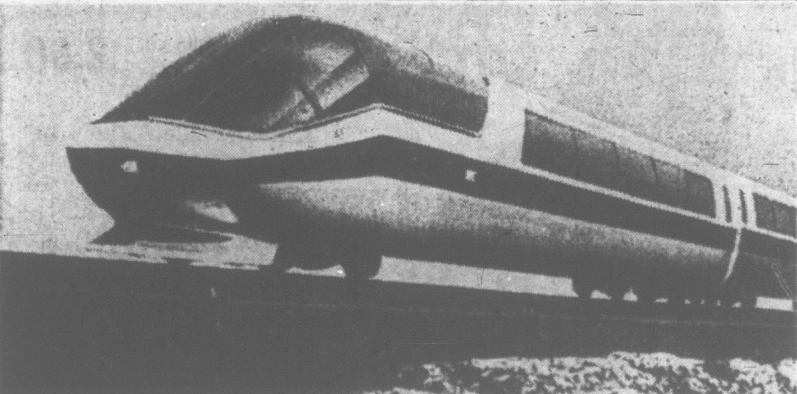

ESSONDALE ESCAPEE 'DANGEROUS'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police describe one of two persons who escaped from the provincial mental hospital at Essondale Wednesday as extremely dangerous and perhaps armed.

They said Peter William Harrison, 26, of Vancouver, was transferred to the hospital from B.C. penitentiary Aug. 4 after being declared mentally disturbed by a medical and psychiatric team.

He escaped from the hospital Wednesday with a 16-year-old Prince George juvenile.

The pair used an electrical cord to slide down from a third-floor window then stole a sports car.

'Freeloading' Halt Seen in Metro Bill

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell said Wednesday the government's new "mini-metro" bill may help in getting rid of "freeloading" municipalities that don't pay hospital costs.

He told the B.C. Hospital Association convention here: "There are far too many free-loaders in this province in the use of hospitals."

Often one municipality had to carry the full cost of a hospital that was used by persons from all the surrounding municipalities without any payment by the surrounding municipalities. Mr. Campbell also said 12 study groups throughout B.C. are surveying the possibilities of some form of metro government.

Health Minister Martin told delegates the province is having its biggest year in hospital construction but Vancouver and Victoria are lagging.

Hospital construction valued at $6,356,000 already has been completed this year, $15,000,000 more in projects now is being spent and another $50,000,000 in new hospitals or additions is being planned, he said.

Total construction bill last year was less than $5,000,000. The minister also charged that Vancouver had been lagging in taking initiative on new construction for continuing and chronic care.

RE-ELECTED for another five-year term was President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania. He polled 96 per cent of votes cast. He was also the only candidate.

Auction chairman, Kiwanian Bert Nelson believes the club should meet its 1965 goal of $5,000.

FIRST RACE: You can expect a fair speed duel here between Actella, Mr. Spree and Pidge's Pride. Weight and all Mr. Spree would be our choice except for the post. He's run well lately but not too many score from out here. Pidge's Pride won at first asking and there's no real telling how good he is. His size Flag Bennett was a superior mudder and Pidge's Pride caught a sloppy trip. Besides he may miss Cormack. Actella looks better every time out and obviously likes the track. . . . ACTELLA (Mr. Spree).

SECOND RACE: Any maiden race can be a handicapper's nightmare and this one is no exception. If speed is your dish Solid Beat and Mr. Wasp must be considered. The filly hung on better than usual in her last try but the deep track takes something out of the filly. Mr. Wasp's only route try was disappointing but if repeats his last he could get on the board. My Imagination will appreciate the distance but his rally isn't exactly overwhelming. Miss Simon is another late runner but we fancy Sans Brazil. She's been lightly campaigned and tends to drift on the turns but the McDougall-Cormack duo knows its business. . . . SANS BRAZIL (Solid Beat).

THIRD RACE: Except for the forage factor, Donmaid would appear to have a fairly comfortable margin over these. She's had a race over the track and if Cormack can find the openings she could be running fastest of all in the stretch. Turk's Girl drew the post to suit her speed. Kelly Joy will carry them a ways but she seems destined to be a bridesmaid. Foral Speed has practically run out of excuses but you never can tell. If all the leaders die the plodding Loodani might make his annual appearance in the winner's circle. . . . DONMAID (Turk's Girl).

FOURTH RACE: She hasn't lost in her last five starts at Sandown and if you believe in horses for courses you have to like In Advance. She drops five pounds here, too, but she'll have to be flat out with these. Dark Bug drops down sharply today and if it comes up wet they may not see which way she went. G. Day is very close to her peak. Lovely Story and Orisla have a shot with this company but we'll stay with Irish Jubilee. None are more consistent, fast or moist. The fast fractions, particularly if Power Tip draws in to gambol with In Advance, should set it up for the Irishman. . . . IRISH JUBILEE (In Advance).

FIFTH RACE: When you get a race with horses stepping up and horses dropping in class, you often end up with a large headache. Fraser Canyon, Tommy Can and Highdon are the ambitious ones and it's amazing how often a horse will step up and mow them down. Jeaneelz, Steve's Trust and Pascanna all take a dip today and off their last race none appears to be a 3-5 good thing. Jeaneelz will likely lead them out of the gate but she stops like she was tied to a tree. Quick Return, who has not lived up to her breeding promise, Highdon and Pascanna will likely be close up, along with Tommy Can. Fraser Canyon needed a sterling ride from Salas to beat an easier field but he rarely throws a bad one. In a grab-bag. . . . TOMMY CAN (Quick Return).

SIXTH RACE: We've never been a member of the Some Standard fan club but unless something pops up early, she should lead them away from the barrier. Read It is never far away and may exert enough pressure to do the job. Aside from Skerry Blue whose mind wasn't on her work in her last out, there should be a great cavalry charge from the three-eighths pole. Copper Prince is

KARACHI (Reuters)—Pakistani forces were locked in a grim battle with two battalions of Indian troops in the Rajasthan area near the Sind border, about 120 miles east of Hyderabad city, it was officially announced today.

An official communique broadcast by Radio Pakistan said the Indians launched an attack at 2:30 a.m. today on Sacha, a post Pakistan claimed to have occupied before the ceasefire order Sept. 23.

Reports at 1 p.m. today said the battle still was continuing with the Indians suffering heavy losses.

United Nations observers have been informed, the communique said.

Famine Faces Isolated Valley

MUZAFFARABAD, Azad Kashmir (Reuters)—Officials here said Wednesday 50,000 people are facing starvation in an isolated valley because food cannot be taken to them along a narrow mountain road shelled by the Indians.

They said the road to the Meelam (Blue Sapphire) Valley, north of Muzaffarabad, capital of Azad (Pakistan) Kashmir—was heavily damaged by shelling in the last year.

Food carriers with 80-pound bundles on their heads have been sent to the valley, where food is needed to supplement a thin harvest. They have to cross 8,000-foot passes on which the first snows will soon fall.

International Red Cross and United Nations Children's Fund officials are helping to alleviate the plight of 1,000 refugees from Indian Kashmir who have streamed into a camp of stone huts 13 miles from Muzaffarabad.

Troops Block Negro Pupils

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—State troopers today turned away a group of Negro children, some of them first and second graders, who failed for the third consecutive day to board buses bound for all-white schools in neighboring counties.

Standing in a steady rain, a highway patrol captain backed by a line of troopers confronted the Negro children and turned them back peacefully. "You're not going to ride the buses and that's it," warned Capt. Theron Aldridge.

Aldridge also warned about 100 whites present: "Let's get this straight. We're not going to have any trouble. We (the troopers) can handle this and we will and that's it."

trial and almost cited Flowers' assistant for contempt. Flowers had maintained he was not prepared to start the trial and that the atmosphere in the county was not conducive to a fair trial for the prosecution.

Flowers took away the prosecution from local authorities on grounds they were party to a "travesty of justice" in trying Coleman only for manslaughter.

Throughout the brief trial the defence contended that Coleman acted in self defence. Three defence witnesses testified Daniels was armed with a knife and Morrisroe with a gun when they approached the small country store. Prosecution witnesses said, however, that both men were unarmed.

COLD WAR CHILLS

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—The war in Viet Nam is freezing Soviet-American relations and the Soviet Union will continue to supply military aid to North Viet Nam, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev says.

On the domestic front, he told the Russians that because of poor harvests the Soviet Union may have to buy more wheat from the West.

Reviewing Soviet foreign policy before the party central committee Wednesday, the first secretary also held out an olive branch to China.

Brezhnev said the war in Viet Nam "greatly complicated" Soviet relations with the United States and those relations "show a clearly evident tendency toward freezing."

"Normalization of our relations is incompatible with the armed aggression of American imperialism against a fraternal socialist country—Viet Nam."

MUST ABANDON POLICY

"The nature of the further development of our relations with the United States will depend on whether or not the leaders of this country will show enough common sense to abandon the policy of aggressive attacks."

Brezhnev again attacked West German "militarism" and warned that the Warsaw pact nations of Communist Eastern Europe would take steps to strengthen their defences. He said there are "no possibilities for fruitful development of relations with West Germany" even though trade continues.

Russia's relations with Britain, he said, were "substantially hampered" by the Labor government's support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam and for nuclear weapons for West Germany.

"At the present time the prospects of our relations with France are not bad," he said, due to "the realistic position of the French government" in attempting to improve relations with the Communist camp.

"We must consistently continue to search for the ways of consolidating friendship and co-operation between the Soviet and Chinese peoples, between our parties and countries."

WILL CONTINUE AID

Brezhnev said Russia had supplied North Viet Nam with "a considerable amount of weapons and military equipment," and declared that military aid would be continued.

And he disclosed that Russia already has bought more than 9,000,000 tons of wheat and flour in the West, much of it from Canada, at an estimated cost of more than $700,000,000.

He indicated that Russia might be dipping into its gold reserves to finance the purchase of more Western wheat.

This year's harvest is expected to be better than 1963's—the worst on record. But experts said it was unlikely to exceed 60,000,000 tons, which would be 14,000,000 tons less than last year's.

'Class Struggle' Continues in China

TOKYO (AP)—Peking admits the class struggle still exists in China and "at times is very acute." The statement on the eve of the 16th anniversary of Communist rule comes from the central committee of the Chinese Communist party in its newspaper Red Flag. Observers saw the statement as an admission that Peking's drive to regiment its masses in communes and state-run industry had not been as successful as claimed.

tured five Indian officers, including a lieutenant-colonel commanding a battalion, in one desert clash.

India, however, said its forces had got the upper hand and were winning in a fight that involved desert rangers and camel units. A defence ministry spokesman said 27 Pakistanis were killed and 26 captured.

India says that when full-scale fighting stopped last week, it held 680 square miles of Pakistani territory, and had relinquished 250 square miles of its soil to Pakistan.

Pakistan Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto said in New York Wednesday there could be no withdrawal of Pakistani troops unless there was "an impartial authority" to replace them. Pakistan also has denied any connection with guerrillas operating in Kashmir.

India, on the other hand, has said no United Nations peace-keeping force will be permitted on Indian soil, and declared Pakistan must admit responsibility for the guerrillas and withdraw them.

Notaries Public Conventioneing Here Next Week

Alex Mathew, M.L.A., will be general chairman at the eighth annual convention of the Society of Notaries Public of British Columbia at the Empress Hotel next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The occasions will also mark the 40th birthday of the society. Chief speakers will be L. St. Moulin, Q.C., who is chairman of the notaries committee of the Benchers of the Law Society, and attorney-general Robert Bonner.

Victoria members of the convention committee include Harry C. Foster, Charles Ellington, J. Gordon Greenwood and Frank L. Kitto, with Frank J. Ney representing Nanaimo.

Delegates and wives will be received by Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes at Government House at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Frostbiters Open Season Fun Program

More than 70 hardy sailors—many of them women—are expected to don winter woollies and wet-weather gear Saturday when the Royal Victoria Yacht Club opens the new frostbite season.

The fleets of El Toros and Davidson dinghies are expected to be larger than ever with more than 70 already registered.

The official opening will take place at 1:30 p.m. In charge of this year's program are chairman D'O T. Rochford and vice-chairman Lyle Russell.

They describe Saturday's races as "a fun program," with emphasis on welcoming newcomers to the fleets. Weather permitting, five races will be run on courses in Cadboro Bay.

CPR Bid Rejected

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners today rejected a CPR request that it be allowed to suspend operation of its Dominion passenger train service immediately to free diesel locomotives for the movement of grain.

City Doctors Back Hospital Criticism

A spokesman for the Victoria medical profession today agreed with sweeping criticism of both local general hospitals as presented Wednesday to B.C. Hospitals' Association.

Although Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals were not mentioned by name, a report delivered to the association's annual conference in Vancouver singled out the five major hospitals of Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster.

They are obsolete and inadequate in many respects, for which the government and communities must be blamed, the report said.

Both lack of finances for capital construction and equipment, and procrastination by all levels of government are responsible for inadequacies, the association was told.

Blame must also be shared by the community, hospital and professional groups and government agencies which have failed to assume responsibility and direction, said the report.

OUTDATED, OBSOLETE

"We all know and have stated that certain portions of our hospitals here are outdated and obsolete," said the Victoria Medical Society director.

"There are plans for updating these, many of them approved by the government and under way."

"We are doing our best to keep up with the times, but it is true that there is a shortage of funds."

The spokesman referred to a recent report of the Victoria and District Hospital Planning Council, which outlined areas of hospital service needing improvement.

It is "an active plan for a five-year improvement scheme, with something to be done each year," the medical man said.

"If this plan is allowed to go through, we should be reasonably up to date."

FAILED TO KEEP PACE

The report made in Vancouver said the hospitals have failed to keep pace with the advances in medicine that enable improved care to be given.

Hospitals lack modern equipment that would help implement better patient care as well as better services, and there is a shortage of some types of highly-trained personnel.

All five hospitals operate near capacity, and one has an occupancy rate considered too high to give satisfactory care, delegates were told.

Quebec Press Ignoring West

REGINA (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage today said newspapers in Quebec should maintain correspondents in major western cities to give the people of Quebec a better idea of the important issues in western Canada.

Mr. Lesage, at a press conference, said he agreed that the English-speaking press of Canada has done more to cover events in Quebec than the French press has done to cover the rest of Canada.

Some of the specified shortcomings include inadequate emergency wards, at all five hospitals; laboratories far too small to do proper work at three hospitals; X-ray departments that are too small or ill-equipped at three hospitals; physiotherapy departments at two hospitals with inadequate facilities and equipment.

All five are operating with plants designed a generation ago, with 60-bed wards, operating suites too small for modern surgery and obsolete dietary services.

Outmoded design and acute space limits make development of new services impossible, the report said.

Health Minister Eric Martin, who opened the conference, said it would be hard to assess the facts of the report because no hospitals were named. But if the hospital boards accepted the criticisms and responsibility for remedies, he promised "full government support."

The Victoria medical spokesman said the X-ray department in St. Joseph's is "certainly in obsolete quarters," although some new equipment had been placed.
